UNIVERSITY OF MAINE

These 4 Mass Mutual men achieved outstanding success in their first full year!

Ned G. Patrick, II

A '60 graduate of Dartmouth College, he joined our Omaha Agency of which his father is General Agent, in December, 1962, immediately following military service as a lieutenant in the Infantry. Honored as Mass Mutual's First Year Man of the Month for October '63, he placed over $50,000 in each of the last nine months and is first year leader not only in volume but in lives with 81.

Marion E. Marshall

Owner and operator of a funeral business for twenty-three years, he joined the Mattoon Agency in August, 1962. He was honored as First Year Man of the Month in March '63. He was second among the first year men for 1963 and 51st among all Mass Mutual agents in lives. He exceeded $30,000 in ordinary new business in each of the last 16 consecutive months.

Gordon E. Bergstrom

A graduate of the University of Minnesota, and a Bishop in the Mormon Church, he held a series of key posts in aero-space engineering for 15 years before joining our San Jose Agency in August, 1962. Last December he completed 15 consecutive months of more than $30,000 ordinary production, and was honored as First Year Man of the Month in July '63.

John B. Boyd

With 10 years of experience in the construction supplies business, he joined our Springfield Agency in March '62. Producing almost a quarter of a million in his first three months, he was honored as First Year Man of the Month in May '62 and as Second Year Man of the Month in October '63. He now has 22 consecutive months of over $30,000 of new business each.

Less than two years ago, these men were asking themselves a question you may be asking yourself today.

"Where will I be a year from now?"

They found the answer with Mass Mutual. They investigated a whole new career — a career in life insurance. It turned out to be one of the most important decisions of their lives, because today they are among the most successful first-year men in their company!

Can you think of any other business where such rapid achievement would be possible, particularly without any kind of capital outlay? Any other business which permits you to make money while you help people, where you choose your own customers and are your own boss?

If you are concerned about your rate of progress in your present job, and are interested in learning more about an opportunity with Mass Mutual, write a personal letter to Charles H. Schaaff, President, Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company, Springfield, Mass. This organization has a record of over a century of dynamic growth and over $2.9 billion in assets. There's always room for a good man at Mass Mutual.

This month's cover is published as a memorial to Carl F. Brugge '18 whose death occurred March 14, 1964. His genial good will for the University of Maine and, especially, the University Sailing Club has been touchingly illustrated by the noted sportsman and artist Frank Lanning of the Providence Journal-Evening Bulletin.

June again! Weddings and reunions. It is a month with extra meaning in it at Maine, for summer is so near and so eagerly awaited by every resident. Trees, flowering shrubs, and other plants and flowers finally have come to the lush season in Orono and are fully green or in blossom. The bloom of beauty on the campus appeared much later than in southern New England. Naturally, the season was all the more welcome. It was lovely having guests, too, to enjoy the grounds and buildings during Commencement week.

The University is beginning to celebrate its age this month. Next February 25 is the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Maine State College. More beauty—not less—and greater quality in education and student training as the University has grown larger are matters to cause our comment. The ninety-ninth birthday last February started our one hundredth year, an important year of change and growth. Incidentally, however, the 122nd Commencement was held on Friday, June 5. (August and February Commencements have added to the number.)

Alumni have done wonderful things for the University of Maine. They have spread their feeling of pride and they have widely recommended their alma mater. Being talented people, they have been a recommendation to the college of their choice by their actions, their civic accomplishments, and their business and professional successes. Materially, alumni have contributed money to Maine, and a good amount of it has built buildings. We are all proud of Alumni Hall, the Armory, Fieldhouse and Memorial Gymnasium, the Fogler Library, the Memorial Union and the Hauck Auditorium. These are very tangible additions to our University, worth a few million dollars.

More recently there has been added the Annual Alumni Fund, a former dues collection plan turned into an annual gift giving program that is successful, too. Three pleasing years of that program have been completed. The first was in 1961-62, the second, in 1962-63; the third in 1963-64. The recently concluded one reached a new high, for we exceeded our $85,000 goal. It is a gratifying measure of our loyalty that we Maine alumni have cared enough to send a gift every year to build the possibilities of aid to students, to the library, to cultural activities, and to special faculty chairs.

The Centennial year celebration being imminent, it was a vote of the annual meeting of the General Alumni Association that our goal for next year become $100,000, a fitting amount and clearly possible of attainment in 1964-65, the 100th year. Every alumnus will first of all be asked to count on this loyalty enrollment campaign and to give it a contribution either large or small. This is the year for every one of us to be sure we do not forget. June is also a time for such realistic plans.

Dear

Editor...

Dear Sir:

I have followed with interest the progress of the University. Your extensive growth has created problems that have been met with skill and determination. The alumni magazine has been greatly improved and the appeals to alumni have been well presented.

In looking over the 1963 issue of the Alumni Directory I am impressed with the number of graduates who have left the State of Maine for employment. With them goes the talent that could have been used to help develop the State of Maine. I also wonder how many students enter the University from other States? I know that many of my contemporaries were not from Maine. My home was in Massachusetts. I feel it is good for the University to include students from as many sections of the country as possible, but the citizens of Maine have no obligation to tax themselves to support out of state students.

In my case I feel that I have an obligation to at least partially repay the University for the education I received.

We wish that more Alumni felt as you do and that also more alumni would offer their comments on the ALUMNUS.

BLACK BEAR AWARD NOMINATIONS DUE

IT'S TIME for Black Bear Award Nominations.

The 15th annual Black Bear Awards will be one of the highlights of the Faculty-Alumni Homecoming Luncheon preceding the New Hampshire game on October 10.

A black bear mounted on a Maine granite base with a sterling silver inscription forms the awards. The bear is cast in bronze from a model exclusively sculptured for the Alumni Association by the noted Providence sculptor, Aristo B. Cianforani. The granite bases have been contributed by Robert McGuire '32 of the Deer Isle Granite Corporation.

Selection of recipients of the award is made by an Association committee from nominations made by alumni. Awards are not restricted to alumni. Faculty and administrative members or friends of the University are eligible. Anyone who has received the Alumni Service Emblem is not eligible for the Black Bear Award.

Among the points considered in making the awards are: 1) devotion to the aims of the University; 2) exemplification of the ideals of the University in personal life; 3) length and quality of service to the University or Alumni Association; and 4) standing among alumni.

Names should be sent to the General Alumni Association, 44 Fogler Library, University of Maine, Orono.

Six Alumni Receive "M" Awards

Six outstanding members of the University of Maine's alumni body have been announced as 1964 recipients of Alumni Activity Awards, established last year by the Alumni Council.

The object of the awards is to maintain and develop strong and active goodwill for the University through work in local organizations, class activities, and the General Alumni Association. The following activities, singly or in combination, are considered in the selection of recipients: strengthening of the local association, individual class participation and support of class activities, development of the University image in communities, supporting or obtaining support for the University through news media, legislative support and/or interpretation of the University's needs to the Legislators, and support of the Annual Giving Fund Activity through contributions.

THOMAS J. DESMOND, '33 (a formal presentation of his award has yet to be made) has served as President of both the Boston and Chicago University of Maine Alumni Associations . . . he served faithfully as a member of the Alumni Council until transfer to Chicago in 1955 . . . he was a tireless worker on three capital campaigns: the Fogler Library, the Memorial Union, and the Hauck Auditorium . . . he this year served as chairman of the Annual Fund Program in Chicago . . . he has been most active in class affairs and has returned to many reunions.

ASHTON "HUCK" SAWYER '35 (whose picture, unfortunately, will have to appear in the August-September Alumnus rather than this one) has been employed as a civil engineer with the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers since his graduation. He has been one of the mainstays of the North Shore (Massachusetts) Alumni Association . . . he has been treasurer, vice president, and president of that group . . . he has worked diligently on many committees . . . at every opportunity, he has explained the advantages and opportunities of the University to guidance directors and prospective college students . . . he was a participant and hard worker in the Memorial Union and Hauck Fund Campaigns as well as the Alumni Fund Drives . . . our salutations to you, "Huck," on jobs well done.

JOHN R. DYER '41, shown here with GAA Executive Director Russ Woolley '41, is currently Vice-President and Class Agent for the Class of 1941 . . . he is an outstanding member of the Southern Kennebec Alumni Association . . . as a state official (Purchasing Agent), he has frequently spoken to classes in Government at the University and has in other ways contributed freely and willingly to the welfare of the University . . . to him go our many thanks.

MILFORD "MIKE" COHEN, '41, center, shown receiving his award from Bob Schoppe, vice-president of the GAA, (at Mike's left is wife Elsa, who received a degree from the University in 1961) has been active in community affairs in Bangor . . . he is currently serving as president of his class, 1941 . . . he has served as president of the Southern Penobscot Alumni Association . . . he served on the GAA Dues Committee and has been a loyal worker for the Alumni Fund . . . he serves faithfully as an official at University Track Meets and is currently a member of the University Athletic Board . . . our thanks go to a most loyal alumnus.

PHILIP '22 and Martha (Sanborn '23) White (center) receive from Assistant GAA Director Art Mayo '58 (left) and John Dineen '51 (right), President of the Boston Alumni Association, their well-deserved award. Both are active in community affairs — he has served as President and Treasurer of the Boston Alumni Association and is presently a member of the University of Maine Foundation . . . both have been tireless workers at University functions in the Boston area . . . four of their children are University of Maine grads: Elizabeth '47, Mary '51, Philip, Jr. '50, and Martha '53.

Campus in Springtime

New Owls Tapped

Twenty first-year men have been tapped for membership in the Sophomore Owls Society during the 1964-65 college year at the University. Selection to the group is one of the highest non-scholastic honors a male student can receive at the State University. Its members promote Maine spirit, help incoming freshmen adjust to college life, and work closely with the Senior Skulls, All-Maine Women, and Sophomore Eagles societies in serving the University.

The new members are:

Benson Caswell, Oakland; John Dyhrberg, Westbrook; Zackary Longley, Newburyport, Mass.; Arden Hayden, South Windham; Franklin Walter, II, Cleveland Heights, O.; Fred Clough, III, Cape Elizabeth; Akbarali Thobhani, Kampala, Uganda; William Ball, Pittsfield; George Glaser, Gardiner; Peter Allen, Rockland; Dennis Doyle, Auburn; John Sherry, Manhasset, N. Y.; Charles Eldridge, Rockport, Mass.; John Henderson, Houlton; Paul Auclair, Winthrop; Thomas Green, Bangor; David Hodgkins, Fanwood, N. J.; Joel Marquis, Fort Kent; Gary Sawyer, Augusta; and Wayne Weaver, North Casteine.

NASA Grant Received

The University of Maine has received a grant of $120,000 from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The funds will support a program of space related basic research projects in engineering, mathematics, social studies, and the physical and life sciences by University of Maine staff members. Similar research has been going on at the university since the fall of 1962, supported by a previous grant of $61,250. The new funds represent a supplement to the original grant and will finance projects between now and October, 1966.

The funds in each case were granted following a request by the university and approval by NASA of the scope and aims of the university's research activity. The objectives of the university's research program, as outlined to NASA, are two-fold: first, to stimulate space-related research at the university in the sciences and engineering fields related to the nation's space program; and secondly, to strengthen programs of graduate study at the university by participation of graduate students in space-related research.

Senior Skulls Selected

Agriculture Graduation

Graduation exercises for second-year students in the University of Maine's two-year course in agriculture were held Saturday, May 2, on the Orono campus. Edwin H. Bates '37, associate director of the University of Maine Cooperative Extension Service, who was the luncheon speaker, chose "Wanted: Leaders for Rural Maine" as his topic. President Lloyd H. Elliott was a special guest. Arlo McPherson, Mars Hill, president of the Twaggie Club and a member of the graduating class, spoke for the 25 graduates.

Fourteen All-Maine Women Chosen

Fourteen junior class women were recently selected for membership in the All-Maine Women Society. The new members are: Stephanie Barry, Bucksport; Martha Anne Beaudoin, Sanford; Adrienne Christakos, Bucksport; Janice Churchill, Winterport; Diana Dunlap, Portland; Roberta Fowler, Old Town; Camilla Guerette, Waterville; Linda Morancy, Saco; Paula Reddy, Kittery; Barbara Rider, Needham, Mass.; Pamela Trojanoski, Bangor; Nancy Troland, Hingham, Mass.; Barbara Waters, Kittery; and Sandra Willis, South Windham.

Library Gets Kipling Letters

The Boston and Maine Railroad is the subject of two letters, handwritten by Rudyard Kipling, famous British author of the early 1900's, which have been presented to the University of Maine's Fogler Library. The letters were presented by an alumnus, Ralph Leighton, '18, of Auburn-dale, Mass., in the name of his wife, Constance, also a U. of M. graduate.

In thanking Leighton for the gift, Librarian James MacCampbell said the letters were welcome additions to the university collection. "We are making a concentrated effort to add material of this nature to the library's collection," MacCampbell said, "since it is in primary sources such as this that original study at the graduate level is based."

The letters suggest that Kipling, like many present-day Maine residents, had several ideas on efficient management of rail service. One letter requests the establishment of a flag and freight station at Waite's Landing, two miles from Brattleboro and apparently near Kipling's home, Naulakha. Kipling drew attention to a newly-established trolley line which he said planned to run tracks parallel to the B. and M. line. "I trust that this matter may commend itself to your early consideration," Kipling wrote, "as I believe that, in the present revulsion of feeling among the farmers, who are now realizing the first inconvenience of a carelessly laid trolley-line, the success of a station that enables them to get supplies from, and themselves to, Brattleboro without risking their lives or their horses would be quickly assured."

Safety was also the topic of the second letter in which Kipling discussed the merits of a warning whistle on trains approaching a nearby bridge.

Summer Arts Announced

Concerts by well-known musicians, art exhibits, lectures and a dramatic production will feature the University of Maine Summer Arts Festival.

Pauline Frederick, United Nations correspondent for the National Broadcasting Company, will be the guest lecturer at the opening assembly of the festival Tuesday morning, July 7, in the Memorial Gymnasium. Miss Frederick is well-known for her radio and television coverage of the U.N., particularly during its periods of crisis.

T. M. Stinnett of the National Education Association is the only other assembly speaker on the program. Stinnett will be on the Orono campus Monday, July 27.

Concert programs scheduled during the festival are The Medleys, duo pianists, Thursday, July 16, 8 p. m.; Suzanne Bloch, lutenist, Thursday, July 23, 8 p. m.; Evelyn and Bob Beers, folksingers, Thursday, July 30, 8 p. m.; and the Eastman String Quartet, Monday, August 3, 3 p. m., and Thursday, August 6, 8 p. m.

The Maine Masque Theatre will present An Evening With Eugene Ionesco Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, August 4 and 5, at 8:15 p. m.

Art exhibits planned by the art department will be on view in different campus locations during July and August. Exhibits will be International Paintings by 30 artists, arranged by the Chase Gallery, N. Y.; 50 original graphics by Picasso, arranged by the Ferdinand Roten Gallery, Baltimore; 20 prize-winning library designs, chosen by the American Institute of Architects; 50 paintings from the university's Travelling Art Show, featuring Maine artists; multiple exposure photographs, Gertrude Tiemer-Wille; and a two-day exhibit of the paintings of Vincent A. Hartgen, head of the University Art Department at his home on Forest Avenue, Orono, July 30 and 31.

Sargent "Archie Andrews" Means, a sophomore TKE from Melrose, Massachusetts, was elected Campus Mayor for 1964-65 after a spirited mayoralty campaign prior to Maine Day. The announcement of his election was made by President Lloyd Elliot following a giant Barbeque, which was one of the highlights of the successful May 6 celebration.

At the 1964 Scholarship Recognition Assembly held on May 14, veteran zoology professor Dr. Benjamin Speicher was awarded the Distinguished Faculty Award. Selected by student vote, Dr. Speicher received a $1000 cash award (contributed by the GAA) and a blazer. He is shown here receiving the award from University President Lloyd H. Elliott. Looking on (center) is Dr. Walter Schoenberger of the Dept. of History and Government, last year's recipient of the award and speaker for the 1964 assembly.

Dr. Speicher served as head of the Department of Zoology from 1942 until last year, when he voluntarily stepped down to devote all of his time to teaching and research. He is also a consultant for the Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

Dean Winthrop C. Libby '32 (left) of the College of Agriculture, as of July 1 will have a new man working with him. Dr. Winston E. Pullen '41 (right) was recently appointed Associate Dean of the College of Agriculture. Pullen, formerly head of the Department of Agricultural Business and Economics, will replace Dr. David H. Huntington who has been named President of Alfred Agricultural and Technical Institute in Alfred, N. Y.

NEW: COLLEGE OF LIFE SCIENCES AND AGRICULTURE

THE NAME of the College of Agriculture at the University of Maine will be changed to the College of Life Sciences and Agriculture on July 1.

Why has the name of this college been changed and why have many other changes been made in the agricultural programs offered by the State University? The answers to these questions and others are contained in a 28-page report prepared by faculty committees of the college under the direction of Dean Winthrop C. Libby. This report was adopted by the university's trustees at their April meeting. In addition to the renaming of the college, other far-reaching changes, most of which become effective July 1, include the following:

..... Combining the present departments of Animal Science and Poultry Science into a Department of Animal Sciences.

..... Establishing a curriculum in Animal Sciences and in Plant and Soil Sciences, leading to B.S. degrees in these two fields.

..... Creation of a curriculum leading to the B.S. degree in Biology.

..... Dropping, adding, and changing of numerous courses.

..... Appointment of a faculty committee to review recommendations concerning the discontinuance of Farm and Home Week and to submit information in greater detail on alternative plans.

..... Offering a two-year Technical Program for Laboratory Animal Technicians.

..... Extending the two-year technical programs to full-length semesters to coincide with the regular university calendar for four-year students.

..... Establishing the degree of Associate in Applied Science for students who meet the graduation requirements of the two-year technical programs.

..... Elimination of the Central Salesroom where various items such as eggs, apples, etc., have been sold.

..... Elimination of the apple orchard on the Orono campus and transfer of apple research work to Highmoor Farm.

..... Appointment of an assistant director of the School of Forestry who will have responsibility for the research and graduate study programs of the School.

..... Phasing-out of the Merrill Hall Tea Room service and the Home Management House operated by the School of Home Economics.

..... Creation of a curriculum in Resource Utilization.

..... Establishment of a doctorate program in Plant Science.

..... Revamping of research activities. (This would involve discontinuing or limiting work on vegetable crops, home remodeling plans, and beef and sheep studies; stepping up research efforts on potatoes and sugar beets, poultry, dairy, forestry and wildlife, apples, blueberries, human nutrition, and marketing and processing; and providing greater emphasis on outdoor recreation, the economic environment, soil-water-air, marine resources, and regionally coordinated research.)

..... Continuing the "new look" for the cooperative Extension Service by placing increased emphasis on commercial agriculture, general educational areas, teaching by mass media, resource development and utilization, public affairs, and adult education.

All of these changes have been made — or will be made — to keep the College of Agriculture and its related activities in tune with the changing socio-economic conditions in the state and to step up the general efficiency of all segments of the agricultural units, Dean Libby said.

Quoting from the 28-page report, Dean Libby noted that during the past century the college has "consistently demonstrated an awareness of the needs of Maine people" and has "contributed significantly and effectively to the university's goals and efforts", but the changing agricultural picture within the state and nation since World War II has "affected and altered the demands made upon the university."

Dean Libby said that he and faculty committees had been working for months on recommendations for changes in the teaching, research, and extension programs.

"We took into consideration such matters as the many requests by Maine citizens for educational and research programs, the expansion of undergraduate enrollment for the university as a whole, the allocation of funds to the university by the legislature, the best utilization of staff and facilities, the erroneous impression held by some people that the programs of the college are related only to farming, and many other aspects of our varied activities, and we made recommendations which we felt would place the college in the right posture to begin the university's second century," he declared.

"The 1963-64 budget for the college and its auxiliary units is approximately $3,000,000. The wise expenditure of these funds calls for continuous review and reorientation of the college's efforts so that the greatest possible productivity can be obtained," he asserted.

"We have changed the name of the college to the College of Life Sciences and Agriculture because we feel this name more nearly expresses the true intent of our programs in 1964. The many other changes have also been made in this same spirit—to keep the college and all its varied programs geared to the needs of the days in which we live and the days to come," Dean Libby said.

The discontinuation of Farm and Home Week is being considered; but if this occurs, an alternative plan will be offered. At this year's Farm and Home Week, U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman (right) addressed a capacity crowd in the Hauck Auditorium.

Under the new system, a two-year Training course for Laboratory Animal Technicians will be offered.

A curriculum leading to a B.S. degree in Biology has been created. Pictured at the right is Dr. Frederick Radke, head of the Department of Biochemistry, being watched attentively by a student as he examines one of his many experimental rats.

The present Department of Poultry Science will be combined with the present Department of Animal Science to form a Department of Animal Sciences.

A new assistant director of the School of Forestry will be responsible for research and graduate programs in forestry.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MAINE'S 122nd Commencement was this year for the third time held in two sections; one ceremony was held Wednesday, June 3, at Payson Smith Hall on the University campus in Portland, and the other on Friday, June 5, at the Bangor Auditorium.

The UMP ceremonies began at 7:30 p. m. on the steps of Payson Smith Hall. President Lloyd Elliott presided at the exercises during which 45 students received Bachelor's degrees. Dr. Austin Peck, Vice-President for Academic Affairs, and Dean Edward S. Godfrey of the School of Law presented the candidates for the degrees.

The Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court of Maine, Robert B. Williamson, was the commencement speaker at Portland. Justice Williamson is a graduate of Cony High School, Phillips Academy, Harvard College and the Harvard Law School. He was admitted to the Maine Bar in 1923 and the Massachusetts Bar a year later. He has served as a member of the Maine House of Representatives, a United States Commissioner, and a superior court justice. His civic contributions, which have been many, include serving as president of the Congregational Christian Conference of Maine, president of the Augusta General Hospital, and as a trustee of the Bangor Theological Seminary. He served as associate justice of Maine's Supreme Court from 1949 to 1956, when he was appointed Chief Justice.

Speaking to the graduates, Justice Williamson said: "There is an obligation to bring our talents, whatever they may be, to the improvement of our state and nation . . . we must stop the export of our young men and women by providing opportunities within our state." He called on graduates to give their support to education from kindergarten through the University.

Dr. Lester W. Nelson of Baltimore, Maryland, who retired about a year ago as Associate Program Director of the Education Division of the Ford Foundation was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Sciences in Education. Dr. Nelson was the commencement speaker last year at UMP. Arthur H. Benoit of Portland, a member of the University Board of Trustees, presented Dr. Nelson for his degree. The citation read by Dr. Elliott was as follows:

LESTER W. NELSON

"Born in Media, Pennsylvania, graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and recipient of honorary degrees from his alma mater, Colgate University, and Colby College; beginning his 40 eventful and fruitful years in the field of education as an instructor in the State Normal School at West Chester, Pennsylvania, he later served as a teacher in secondary schools in Pennsylvania, Dean of the Pennington School in New Jersey, Principal of Scarsdale High School in New York, Member of a Secondary Education Team to the Government of India, Program Director and Treasurer of The Fund for the Advancement of Education, Associate Program Director of the Education Division for the Ford Foundation, and Secretary-Treasurer of the Educational Facilities Laboratories; he has also rendered distinguished service in the field of education as a trustee or member of such groups and organizations as the Educational Records Bureau, Educational Testing Service, College Entrance Examination

Board, and American Personnel and Guidance Association; he is a former Trustee and Chairman of the Board of Sarah Lawrence College, a former Trustee of The Hackley School, and is currently a member of the Advisory Board of the Graduate School of Education of the University of Pennsylvania and an Associate Trustee of the University of Pennsylvania.

"In recognition of your lifelong service in the field of education, your inspiration as a teacher and educational administrator, your farsightedness in fostering educational experimentation, and your wise counsel as a member of many educational organizations, the Trustees are pleased to confer upon you the honorary degree of Doctor of Science in Education."

SPEAKER at the commencement exercises held on Friday afternoon, June 5, at the Bangor Auditorium was Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, Under-Secretary of the United Nations for Political Affairs. He told the 870 seniors and 66 candidates for advanced degrees that the problem of the rights of the American Negro must be resolved. "It (the racial struggle) will beyond doubt become even more intensified until racial discrimination and segregation in all of their formal manifestations have been eliminated in our country." Dr. Bunche declared that "there have been major civil rights break-throughs and advances, and progress has been substantial since the end of World War II, especially, but there is still a long way to go."

"The Negro is fully aware," he said, "that the pending Civil Rights Bill, as imperative as its passage is, or any other law, is not likely to change the established atti-tions for Political Affairs, who was the Commencement speaker and who also received an honorary degree.

tudes on race or color of very many individuals . . . but since the Negro struggle is for rights and is conducted largely in the courts, what gets onto the law books is of tremendous importance."

Dr. Bunche also devoted a considerable portion of his address to the work of the United Nations which, he said, "has quite a remarkable record of peace-making and peace-keeping . . . but it is not yet enough or good enough — not by far."

Honorary doctor's degrees were awarded to Dr. Bunche and to Samuel W. Collins '19 of Caribou, who recently retired as President of the University's Board of Trustees. The honorary degree recipients were presented by Dr. Lawrence M. Cutler of Bangor, President of the Board of Trustees. Dr. Lloyd H. Elliott presided at the exercises and officially conferred the 938 degrees.

The citations read by President Elliott in awarding the honorary degrees were as follows:

"Born in Detroit, Michigan, orphaned at the age of 13, he has been entirely self-supporting since the age of 15; recipient of the A.B. degree from the University of California, he also holds M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard University; beginning his career as a member of the faculty of Howard University in Washington, D.C., in 1928, he effectively combined teaching and research in this position; in 1944 he joined the U.S. State Department and was a member of the U.S. delegations to the Dumbarton Oaks Conference in 1944, the United Nations Conference in San Francisco in 1945, and the First General Assembly of the United Nations in London in 1946; a year later he accepted a permanent post with the United Nations Secretariat; the tragic death of Count Folke Bernadotte, the UN mediator in Palestine in 1948, thrust him into the midst of the delicate negotiations which resulted in the armistice between Israel and the Arab States; regarded as one of the UN's most knowledgeable officials, he has been called on to work on such projects as the peaceful uses of atomic energy, but when trouble breaks out in any part of the world he is usually the man picked to handle on-the-spot supervision and negotiations such as during the Suez Crisis in 1956, the Congo Crisis in 1960, the Mission to Yemen in 1963, and the Crisis in Cyprus in 1964; in addition, he has served with great distinction on many civic, educational, national, and international boards and commissions, and has received a number of outstanding honors and awards including the Nobel Peace Prize.

"In recognition of your Horatio Alger rise to a position of leadership in world affairs, for the inspiring example which you have set for people of all nations and all races, and for your far-reaching contributions in the areas of education, human understanding, and world peace, the Trustees are pleased to confer upon you the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters."

SAMUEL W. COLLINS

"Born in Caribou, educated in the public schools of that community, he was graduated from the University of Maine in 1919 with a B.S. degree in Agronomy; during World War I he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the infantry, and later served as a captain of Battery B, Maine National Guard, and commander of the local American Legion Post; he has demonstrated his business acumen through the successful operation for over 40 years of a lumber and building supply firm, as president of the Aroostook Trust Company, chairman of the board of the Maine Public Service Company, and president of the Maine Retail Lumber Dealers Association; especially active in civic and community organizations, he has served as president of the Caribou Chamber of Commerce, president of the Maine Universalist Church Association, director of the Maine Publicity Bureau, president of the Caribou Hospital District, and president of the Caribou Rotary Club and district governor of Rotary International; he was a Representative in the Maine Legislature from 1945 to 1949 and State Senator from Aroostook County from 1949 to 1957, serving as chairman of the Appropriations Committee for two terms; from 1948 to 1963 he was a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Maine, serving during this period as vice president and president of the board; dedicated, conscientious, patient, sincere, and always realistic, he provided the wise counsel and trustee leadership that were needed in this era of rapid growth and change for his alma mater; we honor him, too, as the father of four sons, all of whom are graduates of this University.

"In recognition of your public-spirited contributions for the betterment of your community, the state, and the nation, your interest in civic, church, and educational activities, your long and abiding service to your alma mater, the Trustees are pleased to confer upon you the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws."

University of Maine alumni returned to campus in good numbers on June 5 and 6 to participate in Reunion Weekend activities. The classes with numerals ending in four or nine, beginning with 1909 and adding the Class of 1962 and Senior Alumni, held official reunions. Many grads from non-reunion classes also came to Orono for the weekend.

The highlights of the weekend, which brought together all alumni, were the Alumni Luncheon, held in West Commons on Saturday noon, and the Alumni Banquet, held in the Memorial Gymnasium that evening.

The luncheon honored members of the 50th Reunion class, and thirty-five members of the Class of 1914 were on hand to observe this Golden Anniversary. University President Lloyd Elliott presented each of the thirty-five with a 50-year certificate while Russ Woolley '41, Executive Director of the General Alumni Association, reviewed each member's background for the assembled guests. GAA President Edward "Buzz" Sherry '38 congratulated each recipient on behalf of all alumni. Class President Ernest "Sherm" Rand turned out to be the star of the affair when he delivered a delightful history of his class which brought many chuckles from the audience.

Saturday evening's banquet honored the University's Named Professors. Seated at the head table were Prof. Edward G. Bobalek (D.S. Gottesman Research Professor in Pulp and Paper Technology), Prof. Herrold E. Headley (Adelbert W. Sprague Professor in Music, supported by the General Alumni Association), Prof. Vincent A. Hartgen (John Homer Huddilston Professor in Art), Prof. Lyle C. Jenness (Louis Calder Professor in Chemical Engineering), and Mr. Kenneth I. Mumme (International Business Machines Lecturer in Chemical Engineering). Later in the evening, GAA Pres. "Buzz" Sherry presented a check for $5000 to Charles Crossland '17 for the University of Maine to continue the Sprague Professorship.

REUNION WEEKEND

The feature of the evening program was the presentation of the coveted Alumni Service Award, given annually to a man or woman who has rendered outstanding service to the University. The 1964 award went to George F. Dow '27. As a student, Dr. Dow was a member of Alpha Zeta, Phi Kappa Phi, and Sigma Psi honorary societies and Alpha Gamma Rho social fraternity. He has worked for the University since 1929 as a teacher, research leader, and administrator. In 1934 he became an Associate Professor of Agricultural Economics and in 1947, Assistant Director of the Experiment Station. He is currently Director of the Station. He has been a leader in alumni affairs for nearly twenty years, serving as Clerk and Council member from 1946 to 1953 and as Treasurer from 1953 to 1959. In 1959 he was elected Vice-President of the Council but was immediately made President, a position which he held until 1961, but remained a Council member on the Executive Committee. He has been a loyal and helpful supporter of all alumni programs both as an organizer and a contributor. In 1957 he received the Black Bear Award. He presently heads the State of Maine Relations Committee.

Other events of the weekend included the dedication of Barrows Hall, the new electrical engineering building, and various class meetings. Milton Kent '30, General Manager of Electric Utility Sales for General Electric, gave the address at the dedication. Details on business transacted at the business meetings (Class and GAA), as well as the $2500.00 loan fund of the Class of 1939 and other gifts made by the reunion classes to the University, will be published in the next issue of this magazine.

Mary E. Brooks

MARY ELIZABETH BROOKS of Brunswick and Gerald Cutler Ellis of Phillips received the alumni watches at the annual Class Day exercises held Thursday afternoon, June 4. The watches are presented each year to the man and the woman in the senior class who, in the eyes of their classmates, "have done the most for the University during their years on campus."

Miss Brooks received the Portland Alumnae Memorial Watch for 1964 which is supported by the Portland Club of University of Maine women. A mathematics major, she plans to be a teacher. She has been active in many campus organizations during her four years at Maine and served in various offices in the Associated Women Students, the Maine Prism, the Mathematics Club, Delta Zeta Sorority, and the All-Maine Women.

Mr. Ellis, a distinguished military student in the ROTC and a member of the Senior Skulls, received the watch awarded by the Washington, D. C., Alumni Association.

He has been outstanding in athletics, serving not only as captain of the varsity cross country team during his senior year but also as captain of the indoor and outdoor track teams.

The Class Day program, which was attended by parents and guests of the seniors and UM faculty members, also featured addresses by valedictorian Mrs. JoAnn Peakes Allen of Bangor and salutatorian Elizabeth Ann Cote of Portland.

In her valedictory address Mrs. Allen said: "We are justly proud of the degrees and honors we have earned. This is as it should be. Yet, we must not be too inspired with our own importance and our accumulation of knowledge. We have all often heard that the truly wise man is the one who realizes how little he knows. Both averages and honors accompany meaningless degrees if the persons involved do not attempt to utilize whatever they have at present to continue to grow and create a better future for themselves and others. So each of us, whatever his status at graduation, has the chance to move forward, to reach out for something better, to risk mistakes."

Miss Cote told her classmates that "the most pressing problem facing us is one of making the spirit of fortitude triumph over the sense of futility. It is our responsibility," she noted, "to re-invest wisely the liquidated faith of our century. A moral attitude must be present. This attitude is one of intellectual honesty, or the desire for truth."

"The specialization of knowledge," she added, "need not discourage us from leading a life of the mind. Although a complete understanding of another field may be impossible, all that is required is respect for scholarly or scientific achievement."

Other outstanding seniors who participated in the program included: Matthew McNeary, Orono, who served with Miss Brooks as class marshal; G. Judd Evans, Portland, class prayer; Mary Holmes, Orono, class history; Virginia Bellinger, Littleton, Mass., class ode; John Howard, Hackensack, N. Y., class gift; and June Parker, Kittery, who provided organ music.

Report of Alumna Trustee

Presented at Annual Meeting by Helen (Wormwood '41) Pierce

Your two alumni trustees took their places on the Board of Trustees within the year of 1963-64. Late in April, Frank Brown succeeded the vacancy left by Charles E. Crossland—often called “Mr. University of Maine.” In November, I assumed the chair vacated by our capable Rena Bowles. So you see that makes me older than Frank. Usually a woman does not admit a thing like that, but under the circumstances I felt some sort of an explanation was due you as to why I am giving this report.

At our annual GAA meeting, the alumni trustee endeavors to give you as concise a picture as possible of the University's changes and development during the preceding academic year. Many changes cannot be included—not because of lack of lustre but rather lack of time. But here are some of the highlights:

Academic

The year 1963-64 began with five Ph.D. programs; in Chemistry, Chemical Engineering, American History, Animal Nutrition and Psychology. Two more such programs have been approved in Plant Science and Zoology.

There have been several changes within the College of Agriculture, including a new name. Effective July 1, 1964, it will be known as the College of Life Sciences and Agriculture. The two-year program has been expanded by the addition of several specialties. Beginning with the class entering in the fall of 1965, an Associate degree in Applied Science will be initiated for those students meeting the graduation requirements of the two-year technical program. Farm and Home Week is being re-evaluated to consider possible changes that will bring its objectives to the greatest number of people in the most efficient manner.

The University of Maine in Portland is growing and becoming an important facet of the southern Maine scene. Forty-five students were graduated from UMP Wednesday night June 3. The School of Law in Portland has been provisionally accredited—a reward received sooner than anticipated. Also on Wednesday evening five students received their degrees from our School of Law.

Summer sessions and Continuing Education have enlarged tremendously and are still growing rapidly. Thirty-six hundred students were enrolled this spring in CED. Also through CED a program leading to the degree of Master of Business Administration at UMP has been established. Both the summer session and CED programs are self-supporting.

A Post-Baccalaureate Certificate in Electrical Engineering has been approved. As far as is known, no other school in New England has or is considering such a program. Therefore, it will become a part of the New England Regional Program and be made available to students throughout New England.

A non-thesis Master of Arts in Teaching degree program for interns in Team Teaching has been established.

The Distinguished Maine Students program is to be continued whereby forty very outstanding students of this year's high school graduating classes will be enrolled on campus this fall.

Enrollment

From June 1963 to June 1964 there were over 15,000 registrations at the University—a growth of approximately three thousand. This leads us into the pressing problem of the admissions picture. Freshman applications to date are up 36% over last year and going higher in the next few years by frightening numbers. The pressures will be increased still more to find room for these students who basically qualify and would benefit from a university education. In other words, this wave of enrollment has not yet crested, and projected estimates show that it will not recede.

Approximately 50% of the Maine residents attending college are at the University of Maine. The State Teachers Colleges educate approximately 22% of the Maine students. Obviously, a very high percentage attend public institutions. This problem leads to others, such as insufficient scholarship and student aids; enough well trained faculty with good facilities for their instruction and salaries to keep them with us; and finally, of course, academic buildings and dormitories. By action of the state legislature, the university was granted $11,000,000 for its operating budget for the current biennium and a referendum provided for the new buildings at UMP and the Arts Building at the Orono campus. There also were many gifts, bequests and research grants, all playing an important role in our academic progress. We accepted them with deepest gratitude. In view of the unprecedented demands which will be made on the university, these sources of monies must be increased if these demands are to be met. This is the old, old story that has been repeated for several years and yet it must be faced, because it is the future of our sons and daughters and all our young people with which we deal.

Personnel

There have been a number of changes in personnel and faculty. I should like to single out for mention, the retirement after long and faithful service to the University of Maine, of Henry L. Doten '23 and Theron Sparrow '24. To them we give our grateful thanks. “Buzz” Sherry paid fitting tribute to them at our luncheon.

David Huntington, Associate Dean of Agriculture has resigned to accept a position in New York and is replaced by Winston Pullen, an alumnus of the Class of 1941.

Dr. Herrold Headley who directed the University Singers at graduation and in the concert preceding this meeting, is the recipient of the Adelbert W. Sprague Professorship of Music—a named-professorship supported by the Alumni Association.

Physical Plant

1. Androscoggin and Aroostook dormitories were opened in September and the Commons - East dining hall.

2. The Arthur A. Hauck Auditorium was dedicated at Homecoming, and the Helen E. Lengyel Hall later in the fall. June 6, we witnessed the dedication of Barrows Hall.

3. The Bookstore took up its new residence in the Union Building in December.

Fraternities

Of widespread interest was the Nolde Report, authorized by the Board of Trustees to study and analyze the fraternity situation on the Maine Campus. This in turn prompted reports to the Board by the Interfraternity Council and the Council of Fraternity Advisors. To study and evaluate these reports, an Ad Hoc Committee was established within the Board of Trustees, whose further duty it was to make recommendations that would strengthen the administration's guidance of the fraternity system. This has been done, and it is sincerely hoped that the fraternities with the help of alumni, faculty and other advisors will soon be on a solid basis that will be a source of pride to them and to the University as a whole.

Conclusion

In conclusion, I should like to say briefly that I feel very humble in this trust that you have shown me—the honor of serving as an alumnae trustee. With your continued and vigorous support, the alumni, the administration, and the trustees will continue to build a great University of Maine.

NEW BOOKS by ALUMNI

Larsson, Robert D., Equalities and Approximations with Fortran Programming, John Wiley and Sons, New York, 1963; 158 pp.
(Reviewer: Dr. Spofford Kimball, head of Dept. of Mathematics.)

Robert D. Larsson graduated from the University of Maine as a mathematics major in 1941. Until recently Professor of Mathematics at the Clarkson College of Technology, he is now Dean of Instruction at the Mohawk Valley Community College.

Dean Larsson has always maintained a keen interest in teacher training and in special programs for outstanding secondary school students. Because of this interest, he taught in a number of National Science Foundation Summer Institutes at Clarkson. For Institutes attended by selected high ability secondary school students in 1962 and 1963, he prepared material which has now been published by the John Wiley and Sons as the book: Equalities and Approximations with Fortran Programming.

Dean Larsson has based his material in modern approaches to mathematics. He has written in a way which should make his book readily comprehensible and stimulating to the able high school students or college freshman who wants to explore a little beyond the usual courses.

In the book the reader will find a clear and carefully written introduction to some of the basic concepts which receive emphasis in modern approaches to algebra, such as matrices, groups, rings, and fields. Treatments of both algebraic equations and inequalities are included. The reader will also find an excellent introduction to the use of Fortran electric computer techniques in obtaining numerical answers to problems. Dean Larsson is careful to point out both the capabilities and the limitations of a high-speed computer. He provides a well selected set of exercises for every topic discussed. Many require prepared Fortran programming for their solution and some encourage the reader to compose his own programs.

The only prerequisites for reading this book are a comprehension of basic algebraic processes and a knowledge of trigonometry.

Dean Larsson has rendered a real service in writing this book and it is to be anticipated that the reader will have his interest in mathematics stimulated.

Remigio E. Agpalo — The Political Process and the Nationalization of the Retail Trade in the Philippines, University of the Philippines, 1962, 344 pp.

(Reviewed by Dr. Edward F. Dow, head of Dept. of History and Government.)

The writer has a special interest in Remigio's sensitively written treatise, having been his undergraduate advisor. After securing his B.A. in government at the University in 1952, Remigio went on to Indiana for his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees. The above work is an outgrowth of his Ph.D. thesis. Remigio is now an Assistant Professor of Political Science at the University of the Philippines.

The Chinese controlled the retail trade of the Philippines as early as the sixteenth century, and eventually gained commercial supremacy, including control of commercial credit. The Spanish, as early as 1586, tried to have the Chinese excluded from trade, but since the Spanish conquerors considered trade to be degrading, the Chinese were allowed to continue in control.

The major move for nationalization (meaning denial of Chinese rights to engage in trade) began about 1896 with the rise of a strong nationalism in the Philippines and finally culminated in the Retail Trade Nationalization Act of 1954.

Agpalo's work deals with the power struggle of various economic and political groups from 1900 to 1954, and the subsequent implementation of the law, including a decision of the Supreme Court upholding the law in 1957.

The Nationalization Act provides that "No person who is not a citizen of the Philippines . . . shall engage directly or indirectly in the retail business. . . ." Persons are allowed to continue existing businesses until their death or retirement, and corporations or partnerships are given a maximum of 10 years to continue business.

The motivation for the Act is well summarized by Agpalo as follows:

"Whoever controls the important business of retailing, therefore, will be the object of jealousy and some resentment, for it is neither uncommon nor unnatural to resent those who make profits. If the profit-makers are aliens, the resentment against them will be aggravated because ethnocentric attitudes, which are universal traits, will poison the ego of the have-not citizens. And if the have-not citizens are further agitated by leaders who claim to save the people from the evils of alien control — hoarding, blackmarketing, overpricing, and subversion of the economy and the political processes of the country — then the politically active and aggressive of the have-not citizens will join the movement or crusade to liberate the subject masses from alien domination."

We would doubtless consider the Nationalization Act as thinly disguised confiscation, lacking in due process of law. However, before we get too self-righteous about it, let us remember the injustices, including confiscation, which we placed upon persons of Japanese extraction on the Pacific coast in World War II. These persons, many of whom were American citizens, were forcibly "relocated" in virtual prison stockades, largely due to hysterical war nationalism.

Agpalo recognizes the "terrible responsibility of Statesmanship" in the following quotation from p. 279 of his book:

"Since policy-makers cannot help avoid inflicting some pain of injustice on others, statesmanship, or the art of governing the state for the welfare of the state, will always be a terrible task for those policy-makers who believe in human dignity and sanctity and realize the consequence of their action or inaction. Like Lincoln, who grieved when he suspended the writ of habeas corpus, policy-makers who accept man's dignity and realize the truth of political life will be doomed to become tragic men. Fortunately for many policy-makers, they are not aware of the tragic truth of political life. They do not realize that when they make or fail to make a political decision they are inflicting some kind of injustice or pain on some group of people. What they know is that they are doing the right and just thing, and, therefore, they think they cannot commit any injustice or inflict any pain on other people at all."

Since the "Political Process" ends with the year 1960, in a letter to Professor Agpalo the writer expressed the hope that the study would be carried forward to show later results of the Act of 1954. He also asked if any compensation had been provided, and why the Chinese had remained aliens over the centuries.

In a letter of February 19, 1963, Professor Agpalo said in part:

"Our government is not buying the alien retail businesses; they are merely allowed to expire or sold to persons who can engage in such business, i.e., Filipino citizens. Quite a number of aliens have closed or sold their retail establishments, and I understand that Filipinos are capable of absorbing their businesses. However, many aliens complain of injustice. Right now there is an agitation going on for the amendment to the law.

Chinese may become naturalized as Filipinos, and some have intermarried with Filipinos. But many Chinese are difficult to assimilate, primarily because most Chinese believe that Chinese culture is a superior one. The law on naturalization is also quite rigid, and its difficulties are aggravated by Filipino nationalism, and, to some extent, prejudice against Chinese.

GIFTS AND TAXES

A prospective benefactor of the University of Maine has two major considerations in determining the amount of his gift: his desire to help and his ability to help. A benefactor's ability to help is further augmented by tax benefits.

The Federal Government has long recognized the importance of private support of higher education and has made it possible for individuals to obtain charitable deductions on their personal income tax through gifts to the University of Maine. Over the years this method of support has become one of the major financial bulwarks of our educational system. Thus, tax savings are a donor's third consideration.

University of Maine officials, your lawyer, or a trust officer of your local bank can point out to you the tax advantages which can be obtained through gifts to Maine. If you are interested in helping Maine — and it needs all the support you can render — you owe it to yourself to investigate through counsel the tax regulations which have been written specifically to help you.

The following ways to give to Maine should be considered.

Gifts Out of Income: A cash gift out of income always costs you less than its face value.

Gifts of Securities: The donation of securities to the University often results in much larger tax savings than gifts of cash.

Donative Sale of Securities: It may be to your advantage to sell securities to the University at your original cost.

Gifts of Tangible Property: Gifts of property can be made outright or over a period of years at a large tax saving. Under certain circumstances, you may enjoy the use of your gift during your lifetime and still claim a tax deduction.

Trust Agreements: A variety of trusts exist to suit individual situations—couples with children, childless couples, widows, widowers and bachelors.

Private Annuity Contracts: An annuity contract can provide you with a partially tax-free income for life.

Gifts of Stock Options: An unusual procedure sometimes gives a corporate executive a surprising tax advantage.

Gifts of Life Insurance: Certain situations make life insurance the best form of gift, especially when a policy is no longer needed for its original purpose.

Gifts from Closely Held Corporations: It is of great advantage for the head of a family-owned corporation to make a gift through his firm rather than as an individual.

Specific Purpose Gifts Contributions to the University can help to further your interest in a particular field.

Endowments: Investments on behalf of the University are often the ideal means of carrying out programs in higher education.

Bequests: Bequests reduce only the taxable portion of an estate and can perpetuate your interest in the University.

On behalf of your representatives on the Athletic Board, Milford Cohen '41, Stephen Buzzell '20, and Clifford Patch '11, I submit this annual report covering athletic activities for the college year 1963-64.

This year has been outstanding for individual and team records made.

Our varsity football team finished second in the State Series and second in the Yankee Conference, although we won five, and lost three games for the season. Our freshman football team had an undefeated season, winning all five of the games played.

Our varsity cross country team defeated Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Bates, St. Anselm's, and Vermont in dual and triangular meets, and won the Yankee Cross Country Championship, placed second in the New England Championships. The freshman cross country team defeated eleven opponents in dual or triangular races and lost only to the University of New Brunswick varsity team. The freshman team scored fifth in the New England Intercollegiate Championships held at Boston.

A very successful Interscholastic Cross Country Championship was again sponsored by our Athletic Department. The popularity of this sport has greatly increased. We will hold the State final championships annually at Orono.

Our first varsity soccer team ever sponsored failed to win a game but played some exciting games and gained a lot of experience. A Yankee Conference Soccer Series will be sponsored for the first time in 1965. Freshman Soccer is not being sponsored at present due to lack of playing facilities.

Our varsity basketball team won the Maine Intercollegiate Championship and placed fifth in the Yankee Conference. The Maine team won twelve and lost eleven basketball games during the season, and finished second in the All Maine College Downeast Classic Tournament. The Downeast Classic will not be continued another year. The Maine team will take a Christmas vacation trip to replace the loss of the Downeast Classic. The freshman basketball team had a successful season winning twelve of its fourteen scheduled games.

The varsity winter sports team won the Maine Intercollegiate Championship and placed seventh in the Eastern Intercollegiate Senior Division Championship.

The varsity sailing team won the Hewitt Trophy Championship last fall at Dartmouth, won the Maine Intercollegiate title this spring, scored first individual in the Yankee Conference Sailing Championship and finished second in Yankee Conference sailing.

We were saddened by the death of our Sailing Coach, Martin Dorff, while on a leave of absence in Chile. We were also saddened by the death of Carl Brugge, who had always shown so much interest, and who had assisted so much in the promotion of sailing at the University of Maine.

The highlight of our home varsity indoor track season was the holding and winning of the first annual Indoor Yankee Conference Track Championship. Our varsity team also defeated Bates, Boston University and New Hampshire teams and lost to Brown and Northeastern. The second annual indoor Federation meet was held at Orono. The freshmen won four indoor dual meets, which included a victory over Boston University frosh, but lost a meet to Brown Freshman at Orono. The spring season results found Maine winning Yankee Conference titles in baseball and track (track for the fourth consecutive year).

Our teams won State titles in tennis (tie), track (for the fourth consecutive year), won sailing and finished second in Yankee Conference sailing.

Our track team finished fourth in the New English Championship, and we sent four men to Philadelphia to the IC4A Championship. A very successful Maine Intercollegiate Track Championship was held at Orono this spring.

Our varsity baseball team, by winning the Yankee Conference title, became an automatic qualifier in the regional N.C.A.A. playoff. A two out of three game playoff was held at Fenway Park, Boston, on June 3rd and 4th, with Maine going to Omaha, Nebraska for further play in N.C.A.A. The baseball team coached by Jack Butterfield played a seven game southern trip during this spring vacation and won six of the games. Victories over Dartmouth, Towson, Villanova, Hampton Institute, Bridgewater and Columbia were recorded.

The Athletic Department staff has done an excellent job, and we happily anticipate the same staff next year, that completed this successful year.

We are handicapped by many outgrown and inadequate facilities such as our gymnasium, and lack of adequate field and tennis court facilities.

I have enjoyed serving on the Athletic Board, and we appreciate the loyal support of the University officials, alumni, faculty, and our students in promoting athletics at the University of Maine.

Respectfully submitted,

Clifford Patch '11

Local Associations

Auburn-Lewiston Alumnae

Hazel (Sparrow '31) Russell, President

The Annual Banquet was held on May 20 at Steckino's Restaurant in Lewiston. Guest Speaker was Mildred "Brownie" Schrumpf, Assistant GAA Director, who spoke briefly of the current activities and improvements taking place at the Orono campus. The main speaker of the evening was Dr. Walter Schoenberger, associate professor of government, who gave a resume of the present U. S. policy in Southeast Asia. Newly elected officers (see April-May Alumnus) were installed.

Finger Lakes Alumni

John Coffin '56, President

On Friday May 1 at the Sylvan Hills Restaurant in Ithaca Art Mayo '58 spoke to alumni on "Current Changes on Campus."

Forestry-Wildlife Alumni

Robert I. Ashman, President

Forestry and Wildlife Alumni held a re-organizational dinner meeting on April 15 at which President Lloyd Elliott was present.

According to the by-laws of the organization, any alumnus or former student of the School of Forestry or of Wildlife may become a voting member upon payment of annual dues to be determined by the executive committee. The purposes of this alumni group are listed as promoting the forest interests in Maine, strengthening the relations with the School of Forestry and the University of Maine, and promoting the improvement of the School of Forestry.

Greater Boston Alumni

John K. Dineen '51, President

Alumni of the Boston area met Saturday evening, May 2, at the Boston Yacht Club on Rowe's Wharf for a dinner-dance. Art Mayo '58 accompanied Dean Edward S. Godfrey of the School of Law, who gave an informative talk prior to the dancing. Art presented Philip '22 and Martha '23 White with the Block "M" Award.

Merrymeeting Bay Alumni

Justin G. McIntire '48, President

A dinner meeting was held on May 28 at the Hotel Eagle in Brunswick. The speaker was William Whiting, Director of undergraduate studies at UMP. Election of officers was held.

Northern Aroostook Alumni

Milton M. McBride '35, Chairman

President Lloyd Elliott addressed Aroostook alumni at a dinner meeting at the Prestile Terrace Motel in Caribou on May 4. His topic was "Growth of the University in the Era of Increased Enrollment." Dean Winthrop C. Libby of the College of Life Sciences and Agriculture brought greetings to the group and answered questions related to his college. GAA Executive Director Russ Woolley '41 and Experiment Station Director George F. Dow '27 also attended from Orono.

On Saturday, June 6, Southern Penobscot Alumnae held a tea in the Main Lounge of the Memorial Union for returning alumni. In the receiving line were (left to right) Winona (Cole '43) Sawyer, GAA 2nd Vice-President; Frank C. Brown '30, Alumni Trustee; Helen (Wormwood '41) Pierce, Alumna Trustee; Mrs. Lawrence Cutler; Dr. Cutler '28, President of the Board of Trustees; and Martha (Page '43) Hodgkins, President of the Southern Penobscot Alumnae.

Northern Kennebec Alumni

John Turbyne '33, President

Director of Admissions James A. Harmon '40 reviewed "A Year in the Admissions Office" for alumni assembled May 7 in the East Vassalboro Grange Hall. Art Mayo '58, Assistant Director of the GAA, brought the group up to date on current events at the University. A business meeting and election of new officers was held.

North Shore, Mass., Alumni

Fred Newhall, Jr., '57, President

Alumni gathered on the evening of May 15 at the Holy Trinity Methodist Church in Danvers to hear Huddilston Professor of Art, Vincent A. Hartgen discuss "How Screwball is Modern Art?" The public was also invited to this lecture. Art Mayo '58, GAA Assistant Director, presented the Block "M" Award to Ashton P. Sawyer '35.

Portland Alumnae

Charlotte (Moreshead '54) Libby, President

GAA Assistant Director Mildred "Brownie" Schrupf showed slides of the University at the annual business meeting of the group. It was a supper meeting held at the home of Pres. Charlotte Libby '54 and attended by a large number. Election of officers was held.

Portland Alumni

Richard D. Hewes '50, President

GAA Assistant Executive Director Art Mayo '58 and Basketball Coach Brian McCall travelled to Portland on May 14 to attend a meeting with Portland alumni at UMP. Following a meal at the school cafeteria, Coach McCall told the group of Maine's basketball program and, as he is also Golf Coach, gave a few pointers on golf technique.

Rhode Island and Southeastern Mass. Alumni

Verne S. Snow '31, President

The annual dinner meeting was held on May 15 at the Falstaff Restaurant in Seekonk, Massachusetts. Edward C. Sherry '38 of New York, President of the General Alumni Association, was guest speaker. He gave a resume of the present and proposed future activities of the GAA. Executive Director of the GAA Russ Woolley '41 was on hand from the Orono office to bring news of recent campus events.

Springfield-Hartford Area Alumni

Thomas Barker '39 and Alton J.

Sproul '49, Presidents

At a joint dinner-meeting held at the Mountain Laurel in Thompsonville, Connecticut, the two groups heard a speech by James A. Harmon '40, Maine's Director of Admissions. Russ Woolley '41, GAA Executive Director, was there to show slides of the University.

Southern Kennebec Alumni

Ralph "Woody" Hodgkins '59, President

A regular monthly meeting was held at noon on Friday, May 1, in the Silver Room at the Augusta House. GAA Executive Director Russ Woolley '41 was there to present John Dyer '41 with the Block "M" Award. Another meeting was held on June 5 to discuss the past year's activities.

Southern Penobscot Alumnae

Jean (Polleys '50) Fenlason, Acting President

Southern Penobscot alumnae held their annual spring dinner meeting on May 5 at the Dow AFB Officers' Club. A business meeting was held and officers for the coming year were elected.

On Saturday afternoon, June 6, the group sponsored a Commencement Tea for returning alumni. In the receiving line were Mrs. Earl Hodgkins, newly-elected President of the Southern Penobscot Alumnae; Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cutler; Miss Mary Zink, Dean of Women; Mrs. Leonard Pierce; Mrs. Waldron Sawyer, 2nd Vice-President of the GAA; and Frank Brown, who recently replaced Charles Crossland as an alumni member on the Board of Trustees.

Tri-City Alumni

Dr. Robert S. McDonald '41, President

Assistant GAA Director Art Mayo '58 spoke on "The Present Status of Varsity Sports at the University" and showed recent sports movies at an April 30 meeting held at Dunn's Restaurant in Latham, New York.

FACULTY

HARRY ROY PERKINS. Harry R. Perkins, 71, died unexpectedly at his home in Stillwater May 2, 1964. He was instructor emeritus in Mechanical Engineering at the University, where he had taught for 42 years before his retirement. A native of Vanceboro, he was a veteran of World War I, and a charter member of O.H.M.H. Post 84, American Legion, of Orono. Survivors include his wife, three sons, one of whom is Frederick A. '45, of East Brunswick, N. J., one daughter, a brother, two sisters, 10 grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

GEORGE B. FUNDENBURG. George B. Fundenburg, 70, of Freeport, died at his home, May 24, 1964. A native of Pittsburgh, Pa., he received his A.B. and M.A. degrees in 1916 and 1917 from Princeton University, and his Ph.D. in Modern Languages from Columbia University at Caen, France, and the University of Paris. He was an associate professor of French at the University of Maine for about seven years, leaving in 1937. He had resided in Freeport since 1941. He is survived by his wife, Ruth Cope Fundenberg, a former instructor of Mathematics at the University and assistant House Director at Balentine Hall.

A. BARR SNIVELY. A. Barr Snively, 65, of Durham, N. H., a member of the University of Maine football coaching staff 1948-49, died of a heart attack at Durham, N. H., April 16, 1964.

CHESTER HORACE MILLS. Chester H. Mills, 86, of Middletown, Conn., died March 18, 1963. A native of Skowhegan, he graduated from Skowhegan High School, and from the University of Maine's School of Law. He practiced law in Jackman, Skowhegan, Quebec, Can., and Manchester, Conn. He had been retired for the past 20 years. He was a member of the Masonic Order. Survivors include his wife, a daughter, and a grandson.

GROSVENOR WILSON STICKNEY. Grosvenor W. Stickney, 85, of Wheaton, Ill., and St. Petersburg, Fla., died in the latter city of a heart attack April 3, 1964. A native of Greenville, N. H., he graduated from Clinton (Mass.) High School, and from the Mechanical Engineering Course at the University. He engaged in civil and municipal engineering, railroad and canal construction and surveys. He retired in 1948. He served in the Spanish American War and was a captain in Company C. 26th Engineers in World War I. He was a city engineer in Wheaton for several years. Mr. Stickney was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity.

DR. LUTHER PECK. Dr. Luther Peck, 83, of Plymouth, Mich., died July 21, 1963. A native of Monson, Mass., he graduated from Monson (Mass.) Academy, from the University in the Preparatory Medical Course, and in 1904 received his Medical degree from the University of Michigan. He had been a general practitioner in Plymouth for nearly 60 years. He had been honored by both the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club of Plymouth for his years of service as a doctor and for "distinguished service to the community." Dr. Peck was manager of the University's 1901 football team. For many years he was on the Michigan State Board of Registration for Medicine. Survivors include his wife, two daughters and several grandchildren. Dr. Peck was a charter member of Sigma Chi Fraternity at Maine.

GEORGE PEARSON LARRABEE. George P. Larrabee, 82, of Auburn, died Nov. 2, 1963, at a Lewiston hospital. visit; California was complaining of dryness, my son's ranch at Millville needed a lot of rain.

Had a good letter from Harry Beale's good wife Marion. They left St. Pete, April 17 and took the trip home to N. Anson by easy 200 miles per day, so arrived home not too tired. Harry is feeling better and was able to drive some each day.

On their way they called on "Pink" French who had a lot of sickness last winter. He is fighting his way to good health. Harry had a letter from Roy Sand's sister stating that Roy had passed away from a heart attack May 14, 1964.

I received a letter from C. J. Moody, also a copy of an article that he had written about Maine Engineers that have helped the West change from desert lands to the wonderful farms that we now have. C. J. mailed a copy to Dr. Russell Woolley. The article is too long for Alumnus but would be of interest to Irrigation Engineers.

Ralph Alton advises that before retiring he worked 29 years with the New England Electric System.

Sorry not to make Commencement this year.

1906 Mrs. Llewellyn Edwards, of Glen Echo, Md., has notified the Alumni Office of the death of Mrs. Dayton Edwards, wife of Dr. Dayton J. Edwards, on April 28, 1964, at Charlottesville, Va.

1907 Mr. Karl MacDonald
27 Nelson Avenue
Wellsville, N. Y.

Here are some changes of address that came in after my class letter was written and sent to Orono.

Dr. J. K. Goodrich is now living at 811 Elm St., Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. I have not heard from Joe since he was at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., so I don't know how he came out.

Charles H. Martin is still alive. He retired in February and is now living at 85 Sunrise Lane, Levittown, L. I., N. Y., where he sits and watches the cars go by and takes a walk of a mile or two each day.

Gordon L. Wildes has moved from the nice town where he was located, to 249 Eddy St., Apt. 2, San Francisco, Calif.

I wish to correct a mistake in my class letter. In the last paragraph I wrote "we are located on Route 50." It should have been 52.

Terschak Bye is still with us. When he wrote, he said it was his third day home from the hospital where he had an operation for a double hernia. Said in a week or so he hoped to be back to normal.

Edith (Tate) Brawn recovered from her attack of pneumonia. Later on I may have a new address from her.

John Burleigh, Exeter, N. H., visited their son last October in Lincoln, Neb. Said it was quite an experience to see corn cribs and elevators bulging with grain. He won a bout with pneumonia in December.

Porter Swift said they enjoyed Commencement last year and hoped to be back again this year. He loves his summers at his camp in Maine.

Arthur Lord, Palos Park, Ill., is very well but his wife has been in the hospital twice. He was in hopes to attend the 60th Reunion but at the present time says it does not look as if he would make it.

Ben Connell, Scotia, N. Y., said he was sorry to miss attending Commencement this year but was afraid the long drive would be too much for him. His operation and sinus troubles last winter have not left him in too good shape.

1908 Mr. James A. Gannett

As this Pre-Commencement news is being typed George '09 and Sarah (Brown) Sweetser are on their way East by automobile from the Pacific Coast to attend George's 55th class reunion. They will visit relatives in this area with headquarters at Old Town with Sarah's sister Miss Lulu Brown before returning to Oregon.

Dr. Charles W. Kinghorn '09 of Kittery, Philip D. Simonton '10 of Oak Park, Ill., and James A. Gannett are expecting to attend the 60th of the Class of 1904, Yarmouth High School. Nine members of the graduation class of 18 are expected to be present.

Lawrence W. Emery, Jr., of Bangor, grandson of Philip and Rebecca Emery, is among the '64 graduates. He is the son of Lawrence W. '42 and Virginia (Moulton '41) Emery. Phil and Rebecca plan to attend the Commencement Exercises and Phil and Lawrence Jr., will be present for the initiation and banquet of the Senior Skull society.

SENIOR ALUMNI

1895, 1896, 1899 Three members of the 19th century classes were on hand at reunion—"Prexy" Harold S. Boardman, Lore A. Rogers, and Leonard Ford.

1900 Percy L. Ricker, Washington, D. C., and his wife, spent the winter and spring months in central and south Texas, studying and photographing the plants of the area.

Alan L. Bird was the only member of the class at reunion June 6.

1902 Arthur Silver and his wife came early and attended all of the reunion events. At the dedication of Barrows Hall, in the Arthur St. John Hill wing of the building, Mr. Silver, a member of Mr. Barrows' class, was recognized as an outstanding pioneer in electrical engineering, and received a fine ovation from all present.

1904 Although there were no organized reunion for the 60 year class, Roy Averill was registered and was greeting many friends in other classes.

News from our '05 classmates has almost dried up, so I'll have to say something about Edie and me—we had a good trip to Millville and Redding, Calif., to visit my two sons and their families. Drove by way of Burns and Lakeview, Ore., and came home by Bend and John Day, used up 1323 miles. The weather was fine throughout the and granddaughter of Ray and Madge Fellows, is among the '64 graduates. Her sister Frances is a member of the freshman class and another sister, Martha, will enter Maine this fall.

Leslie and Edith (Jordan '10) Lord's granddaughter Linda will graduate from Maine this year in the field of Government. Linda is the daughter of Francis '37 and Ruth (Kimball '37) Lord, Belmont, Mass. Burton and Grace Flanders returned home to Rockland on May 5 after a very pleasant winter at their new mobile home at Fair Lane Acres, Bradenton, Florida.

William and Bell Cobb are planning to attend the Commencement Exercises on June 5 when their grandson, William P. Browne will graduate in Agricultural Business and Economics. He is the son of Paul '39 and Lucy (Cobb '38) Browne. His brother, Robert is a member of '65.

Leslie "Pete" Lord has retired from the lumber business in which he has been engaged for the past 52 years with the recent change of ownership and management of the Jordan Lumber Co., of which he has been an official. Leslie and Edith will continue to live in Old Town with time out for travel and visits with their children and grandchildren.

Have had several additional replies to my "last call" letter to classmates. Incidentally, that caption sounded ominous to one or two of our constituents. I think, however, that the last call is supposed to be accompanied by a sounding of trumpets which was not present in this case, No cause for undue worry!

It now appears we shall have approximately thirty, including guests, at our class dinner Friday night. When you read this I trust we may both say "it was good to see you at our 55th."

Our ever busy friend, Mary Ellen Chase still has lively interest in town and Smith College affairs. Recently she addressed the Northampton Woman's Club on one of her favorite subjects—"the Hebrew Prophets". I have recently read another of Mary Ellen's delightful pet stories, Richard Mansfield, Prince of Donkeys. Richard had strange ways in spite of which he was an honored member of the Chase family household.

A recent letter from Cora Shaw Gunn brings the unhappy news that her Seattle family are picking her up in Pittsfield, Mass. and taking her back to Seattle for six or eight months there and in California. She, and we, greatly regret this conflict in dates. In spite of the vicissitudes life has brought to her, Cora's faith and spirit are strong. She quotes from the Psalms, "The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage."

A good letter from Bill Osgood states that "any notion of coming to Orono is out". We are all sorry, Bill. We shall miss you.

Merton Goodrich writes that due to physical limitations he will be unable to be with us in Orono. He enclosed an interesting news clipping which records the presentation, by the U.S. Weather Bureau, of a 15-year emblem in honor of his service, since 1948, as a volunteer local weather observer. The job involves daily recording and reporting of essential meteorological data. Merton is really indulging a life long interest in what makes our weather. He is frequently consulted locally for weather records and forecasts. It is a confining hobby, but it is done by our classmate with pleasure and devotion to duty. We salute you, Merton, and shall miss you at the reunion.

I am off for a fishing trip to New Brunswick, but shall return home in time to start out again for Orono. I shall be prepared to tell you all about the big fish—and the poor fish.

A night letter from Jesse Mason which is bad news. Jesse checked into the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary yesterday for an operation on the inner ear. This trouble had been causing a slight paralysis to the left side of the face. It may be necessary for them to give up the North Cape Cruise they were looking forward to. Both Jesse and Mollie send cordial greetings and all good wishes to all the classmates who are able to make it.

A short note from Geneva (Mrs. R. S.) Phinney says "I live in the Snyder Nursing Home because I have a fractured hip and a bad heart." We are sorry to hear such news but we do sincerely wish you the best.

A letter from Mrs. George (Abbie Kent) Springer illustrates that you never know what's going to happen. Kent Springer, son of George and Abbie has charge of the acolytes at All Saints Church in Pasadena, Calif. and his son, Bruce, is an acolyte as is one of Bruce's friends, Steve Davis.

Steve's family, rather new to Pasadena, are also members of All Saints Church. Last fall while on a short vacation the two families happened to meet at Big Spur (near Carmel), Calif. Greetings followed and then Steve's father asked Kent: "By any chance, is your mother's maiden name Abbie Kent?" Kent, very much surprised, answered: "Why yes — it is." Then replied Steve's father: "Your Dad and my Dad were roommates at the U. of M." You can guess what then followed.

Bruce and Steve have been associated in school and church for the past 2 years and both of them were acolytes at the wedding of Ann B. Springer, granddaughter of George and Abbie, on Feb. 8, 1964.

Since the article in the November Alumnus about James Booth we have learned that James is the oldest practicing attorney in St. Petersburg, Fla. with 53 years to his credit. Mr. Ralph Reed, clerk of the Historical Museum in St. Petersburg, has suggested that they would like to establish a James Booth Alcove in their museum when James gets ready to retire and would be willing to allow display of his old desk, book cases, pictures, awards, etc.

In his letter, Mr. Reed said "You were among the few who were responsible for voting machines and you have worked for your part through the years without any political reward so I think you deserve a niche in posterity".

At the dinner meeting of the Bangor Life Members of the Jasper N. Kelly Chapter, Telephone Pioneers, held at the Oronoka on May 11th, Charles Smith and wife were guests at the head table. Charlie is President of the Orono chapter of Telephone Pioneers. To belong to the pioneers, you must have served more than 21 years in the telephone company. Charles and his wife were observing their 43rd wedding anniversary on Alumni Day, June 6. Congratulations!

This is all for now and until October. May all of you have a very pleasant and enjoyable summer. Please take time in the early fall and tell me and your classmates about it.

Earle O. Whittier is apparently well started on his "heaven's half-acre" between a fresh-water lake and the ocean, at Rehoboth Beach, Delaware. His son is headmaster of Moses Brown School in Providence. Earle retired from research in the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture in 1956.

Mrs. Margaret McManus Carroll, after over forty years of teaching is now just amusing herself playing "grandmother". She says she appreciates the Alumni Office birthday greetings.

L. J. (Dutch) Wertheim writes from Florida that he takes an annual trip north in the summer. "Dutch" is very frank and honest about his activities, and lists his hobby as resting, his business, none. And his other activity as taxi-ing his wife and her friends to bridge parties.

"Nemo" Smith, another of our classmates writing from Florida, has sold his residence in Hyannis and will build a summer home in the Smokies in N. C. Last fall he drove to Los Angeles and back to Florida. He still operates an electric supply company and a construction company. This winter he had visits from Ernie Walker, Bruce Bearce, and saw Al Conley.

Parker M. Cooper, of St. Pete and Albion, has a daughter, Mary, Class of '39. Like some of the rest of us, he does a little fishing, and, as he says, shuffles around and speculates some.

Raymond E. Davis of Berkeley, Calif., U. of M. 1911, 1914, 1936, called at the Alumni Office on his weekend in Maine, May 16.

1912 Mr. William E. Schruppf
84 College Ave., Orono

Maine Alumni Reunion, June 6, was acclaimed a big success. Even though this was not our special reunion year, 1912 made up a goodly portion of the Senior Alumni in attendance. There were Arthur Deering, Luella (Woodman) Harvey, Philip Hussey, Frank Lancaster, Warren McDonald, Oscar Mountfort, Fred Stewart, and your secretary. Several of us sat together, both at the breakfast Saturday morning and the banquet at night, and there were some real good gabfests — reminiscing about people and events.

At a testimonial held recently in his honor, James Boyle was praised by Maine's Governor, John H. Reed, for his 45 years of service as Adjutant of the Maine Department of the American Legion. The Governor said in part, "Jim Boyle's dedication to the Legion and civic affairs in this state has earned for him a place of honor among our most distinguished citizens."

Classmates will be saddened to learn of the death of Grace S. Garland, wife of Philip Garland, on May 3, at Tacoma, Wash., after 46 years of marriage. We extend our deepest sympathy.

From Honolulu, Hawaii comes a card from Alice Harvey Brewer which reads "May 17, 1964— This was Civil Rights Sunday in Hawaii—10th Anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court's school desegregation decision. Fair play for all races can work, as we in Hawaii know. Please write your U.S. Senators to vote for the Civil Rights Bill and thus advance the cause of democracy." Aloha to you Alice, this thought is a fine one and I hope anyone reading this column will ask their political representative to help push the Civil Rights bill to final passage."

Perusing the Boothbay Register 5-28-64 noted that Roger "Shorty" Long and his good wife Christine have registered in at their cottage at beautiful Isle of Spring over Memorial Day Holiday. "Shorty," we missed you last year.

Frances Carleton '16 writes that her commanding officer and she will be in attendance at the 51st. "Jock" and Frances have been very loyal to the University and the classes of '13 and '16.

Margaret and I have been very busy getting settled in our new home in Kennebunk.

Mrs. Albert L. Kavanagh (Mary Leonard) writes, "I certainly do remember all the good times at Maine. Those were happy days. I have had a most eventful life. I built a winter home here at Bird Key, Sarasota, Florida in 1961 and I really enjoy it here. If all goes well I plan to be at the 50th reunion and will be looking forward to seeing all my classmates."

Norman Junkins, now of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, starting as a plant engineer with Niagara Alkali Co. prior to World War I, was projected into the chemical engineering side of the business when the German owned firm was taken over by the government during the war. He has pursued a career in chemical engineering ever since. Working for several different companies he traveled to the far places of the world after a stint at Muscle Shoals and the TVA. Jobs in Chicago, Cleveland, and New York were followed by assignments in Sweden, Viet Nam, and Korea. He writes, "... finally being some four years over retirement age, I was put out to pasture last year." He says, "I am looking forward to seeing my classmates in June."

"I am looking forward to the 50th reunion and plan on attending," reports Edward M. Loftus, Whittier, California. He says that he is not sure that Mrs. Loftus wants to make the long trip East, but he has grandchildren who would love to see Maine and the "World's Fair". Edward says it is difficult to telescope a career of 50 years into a few sentences. He writes that he has had a busy, interesting life and that he is still active. We learn by the grapevine that he was recently honored by being on the program of the National Real Estate Board's convention in New York City.

Bowled over by the immortal Jim Thorpe while guarding home plate in a New England League exhibition game with the New York Giants 40 years ago, "Artie" Abbott, Maine '14, was convinced that there must be an easier way to make a living. And he found it. He hung up his spikes and pioneered the manufacture and sale of frozen custard (soft ice cream) along the entire Atlantic Seaboard. Back in 1926 he introduced soft ice cream to Washington, D. C.

When Playland was opened in Rye, New York, just north of New York City, in 1928, he was there with his frozen custard machine, and he has become an institution at the famous resort. At his six stands, four feature frozen custard and two purvey cotton candy. He personally supervises the operation of the six stands, working from nine in the morning until midnight every day of the week. That, he maintains, is the way to stay in business.

Always interested in horses, Abbott for many years has been an avid Thoroughbred owner and breeder. His "Blue Man" won the Preakness in 1952 and finished third in the Kentucky Derby. While he says he's having too much fun selling frozen custard to quit, when he finally does decide to put himself out to pasture he plans to devote more attention to his stable of race horses.

"My last command was the AntiAircraft Group at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas," writes A. L. (Sandy) Haggart, who remained in the army after World War I and completed 33 years of service before retiring on physical disability in 1950.

Sandy spent much of his time in the service in Texas, but retired to Miami Beach in 1950. The move to the east coast brought him considerably nearer his son and daughter in the New York area.

He is looking forward with a great deal of anticipation to the 50th Reunion, checking the changes that have taken place since his last visit, and most of all, meeting classmates whom he hasn't seen for a decade or more.

1916 Mr. Everett G. Ham

Wellesley 81, Mass.

Lawrence E. Philbrook is working with the N. H. Development Administration as committee chairman for Coos County in Rural Area Development, with special attention being given to hard-wood utilization.

Ralph W. Fannon now spends the winters in La Jolla, Calif., but prefers his old Wisconsin northwoods cottage each summer. However, he yet has interest in Maine as evidence by the report from class Treasurer Omar K. Edes that Ralph has recently contributed to the Class 50th Reunion Fund. A more recent letter states that the Fannon family are to be at commencement this June, Ralph's first visit to the Campus for 48 years.

Win Edminster and wife leave Norway each winter for Arizona where he finds it ideal for his photography hobby. The Edminsters are fortunate in having their married daughter and three grandchildren live next door to them in Maine.

Good correspondent Harold Coffin of Bangor and your reporter have lately been reviewing the world renowned World War II exploits of classmate Brig. Gen. "Arch" Hamblen, especially the secret night-time round-trip by "canoe" (Folbot) from the British submarine "Seraph" to the North African Coast. This was as an aide to Gen. Mark W. Clark at the time of the first exploratory invasion. The fascinating story was covered by "Life" magazine years ago. Also T. Robertson's 1957 book "The Ship With Two Captains" describes the landing, "Arch" Hamblen's part in it, and the safe return of the water-soaked party to the "Seraph".

Walter D. Emerson, honored as Vermont "Engineer of the Year" by ten engineering organizations. He retired in 1959 as head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering at Norwich University. Presently he is an industrial consultant.

I came up from Camp this morning, partly to type this class column, and am wishing I had more to report. I did have a nice call the other late afternoon from Dick McKown, and he certainly must have thought he was greeting a pair of farmers. William had been cutting down a white birch tree, and I had been working in the dirt all day, and we were both very "grubby". I hope he comes again and finds us more respectable.

Bryant L. Hopkins of Waterville was reelected to the State YMCA Executive Committee for a 3 year term.

Two new addresses for your file:
Horace Leighton Grant

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harmon

Menlo Park, California

We hope that some of you will go through Bangor during the summer, and will drop in to see us, in Orrington.

Once again we depend on Dick Newdick for news.

"E. L. Newdick, State Commissioner of Agriculture, was presented a 50-year membership medal by the master of the Grand Lodge of Maine as Augusta Lodge, F. & A. M. marked Senior Mason's Night."

Dues are due in June. Send $2 to Raymon N. Atherton, 20 North Main St., Orono.

1919 Samuel L. Pitts, Sr., will be a candidate for the Republican nomination in the June primaries for representative to the legislature from the towns of Harrison, Bridgton, Naples, Casco and Otisfield. Pitts was a member of the 101st legislature and is a member of the public utilities committee. He was also a member of the 99th session. At present he is president and treasurer of the Vacationland Campsite, Inc., at Crystal Lake.

Miss Blanche Haley, of Lincoln, N. H., has retired from her position in the office of the Franconia Paper Corp., due to the company's age policy. She has worked for the company for 37 years. She was feted by her co-workers. Miss Haley was a native of Brewer. She will live in her home in Lincoln.

George Faulkner was unable to attend reunion as he was off to his summer home and farm in Nova Scotia.

Vernon and Jessie Wallingford were sorry to cancel out on reunion. "Perhaps we can come for Maine's 100th next year." She also writes, "We returned from our European tour, a sort of sentimental journey back to the little country of Belgium where we spent the first year of our marriage when Vernon was an exchange student from Harvard to the University of Brussels. However, since the stork is expected any day now at the home of our younger son—it looks as if my place is here."

We have news from Newell W. Emery that he and Mrs. Emery have finally decided to go into full retirement. Newell retired from the U. S. Department of Agriculture on August 1, 1950 after 23 years of service in that branch of the Federal Government. During that 23 years he was located on the Campus of the University in Orono, employed as Administrative Assistant and Program Specialist of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service of the USDA. He was located in the State Office of that Agency.

Newell and Mrs. Emery operated a seasonal Motel in Bar Harbor from 1956 to 1963, devoting full time to the operation in 1960 until his retirement. They have now closed their Motel and gone into full retirement, making their home in Bar Harbor.

He is now serving a 3-year term on the Town Council of Bar Harbor, of which he is the Secretary. It is interesting to note that four of the five Council members for the past two years have been graduates of the University of Maine. Newell is also a deacon of his local church and Adjutant and Quartermaster of Acadia Barracks, Veterans of World War I, in Bar Harbor.

Newell has two children, one a daughter, Mrs. Frank Spencer, Beverly, Mass., and Newell, Jr., who is working as Chief Chemist for the Boise Cascade Corp., Walla Walla, Wash. Doris is a teacher in the public schools of Beverly and has 3 daughters. Newell, Jr. has 3 sons.

And on March 18 from Phil Libby: "Just back from another month in Mexico. Very interesting as usual and one of the most beautiful scenic drives from Durango to Mazatlan that we have ever taken. Last summer we went up north and spent most of our time in Montana, Idaho and Southern Canada. In between times we are planning to ship the camper (and go along with it) to Alaska, drive around that country a bit and back via the Alcan Highway. Maybe after that I will be my age, sell the camper and settle down,—but don't count on it."

Names in the News: In March Dot Buzzell was a delegate from the Esther Eayres Chapter, D.A.R. to the 66th annual Spring Conference of the Maine State Organization of the D.A.R. held at the Eastland Motor Hotel.

Alonzo Harriman is in the current "Who's Who in America."

Haverhill, Mass.

From 1921 to 1962 he led a busy, exciting career. For 33 of those years he was in charge of field personnel that installed electric power equipment on the Pennsylvania Railroad, a milestone in the electrification of railroad industry. He was also responsible for the field group which installed and serviced domestic and foreign diesel-electric locomotives built by G.E. and Alco; also he was responsible for organizing and training field personnel to install and maintain the first experimental U.S. jet engines, forerunners of our modern jets. "Red" has long been active in Alumni affairs at Maine and now that he has retired we all know he will continue to serve 1921 and his Alma Mater.

Dr. Frank S. Beale, associate professor of mathematics, Lehigh University since 1930, is retiring in June. Prior to his Lehigh teaching, he taught at Maine, Hamilton College, and University of Michigan. Frank is a specialist in the field of Actuarial Mathematics. His name appears in Who's Who in American Education and American Men of Science. He is the author of Elementary Mathematics of Finance (1924) and has had papers published in the Annals of Mathematical Statistics. He earned his B.S. at Maine, his M.S. Maine '23, and his Doctor's at University of Michigan '31. He is a member of Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering, Phi Kappa Phi, and Sigma Xi, national research honorary.

"Prexy" Marcoux, New England's representative of the American Legion Foreign Relations commission (a group of 70), flew from San Francisco in May for a round-the-world trip for the purpose of studying U.S. operations of the Military and State Department Foreign Service installations.

On a leave from the Public Utilities Commission in Augusta, Ralph Ranger had two weeks in San Francisco and two in Phoenix, the latter place where his son Alan is employed in General Electric Digital Computer plant.

Pat Corbin, Melrose, Mass., is still actively engaged in the manufacture of coated fabrics, specializing in vinyl coated products for the shoe trade with Hub Fabric Leather and its subsidiary Duro Gloss Rubber Co. Pat has 3 grandchildren, Paul 13, David 11, Laura 9.

Frank Law, Bristol, Conn. retired in 1957, keeps busy with part-time work, community affairs, and a garden. Summers he is in Maine.

Hester Wessinger will teach French and Latin next year at Unity-Freedom High School. She has done graduate work at Harvard, Yale, and Temple, and a year at the Sorbonne.

Effie Weatherbee Peters is touring the Scandinavian Countries.

Steve Beaker, St. Petersburg, was recently elected 2nd V.P. of the Retired Telephone Pioneers of America, a membership of 700 in his area; just elected Fire Chief of Kenneth City Vol. Fire Dept. He plans summer traveling north, with a month in Maine.

Dr. James Chute (retired, Osterville, Mass.): "Chief occupations: baby-sitter for local grandchildren, travel, fishing, trustee of several local organizations."

Madeleine Eastman Cousins, Old Town, is enjoying her husband's 21 grandchildren. Quite a family!

1922 Mrs. Frederick Marston
(Kay Sargent)
Sargentville

Commencement is almost here, and so is the deadline for class notes. It is like studying for exams, it seems impossible to get around to it until the last minute. It was fine to hear from Doris Merrill who lives in Guilford, Conn. She was an observer at the Council Meeting of the International Federation of University Women, held last July at Crosby Hall, London, England. Doris is president-elect of the Guilford-Madison branch of the American Association of University Women, and serves on the state board of the Conn. division AAUW as liaison person for the International Federation of University Women.

There's news from Perry Shean, too. He has just celebrated his 35th anniversary with Western Electric and lives in New York. However, he expects to return to live in California after his retirement in July.

Other classmates in the news are: Donald Dan-jels of Readfield, who was elected vice-president of the Little Town Club at its annual meeting in May. And Philip White and his wife Martha (Sanborn '23), were honored on May 3 with the Activities Award given by the University of Maine Alumni Association. The award was presented at the Boston Yacht Club by Arthur Mayo, assistant executive director of the association and John Dineen, president of its Boston branch.

It was nice to see Rev. Alfred G. Hempstead pictured with some of the distinguished members of the Alumni Association of the Bangor Theological Seminary when the annual luncheon was held in Bangor recently. He is a former trustee and now he and Mrs. Hempstead spend their winters at Penny Farms, Fla. but come north to spend their summers at Onawa.

Elizabeth Harkness, who has retired, and is living in Lincolnville spent some time with Janet (Cole '23) Armstrong (Mrs. Lee) at her home in Machiasport. Bet they had a grand time getting caught up on class news. Wasn't there any to pass along?

A very special salute to Henry Doten on his retirement the end of June after twenty-five years of serving the University as business manager. During the years his activities have also included responsible positions in Engineering organizations, as well as in the military field, for which he received special commendation. To say nothing of his great help in all of our class affairs. Best of luck, Henry, and I'm sure I am only one of many who will miss you at Maine.

Dear Classmates:

This is the last report of the college year so it's time to wish you all a pleasant and healthful summer. Here's the news:

Wentworth, H. Bernice is a technical manuals editor. Lives in Chambersburg, Penn.

Wyman, Mrs. Oscar L. (Leah Smith) was re-elected leader of the Garden Group of the Orono Women's Club recently.

Landerkin, Charles F. was recently photographed for the Bangor Daily News in connection with an item on the Adult Evening School in that city. Charles instructs pupils in handicrafts. One of his students made a beautiful colonial bench which was shown in the photo.

That's it for the present.

Time to think about, and make plans to attend, our 40th reunion next June.

Chet Baker, YMCA national counselor from Maine and state YMCA secretary respectively, attended the "Y" National Council meeting in Detroit in May.

Another class "tripper" reports — Nan (Mahoney) Bradford: "Just returned from a three month trip to Florida, California and Hawaii with my husband who had a leave of absence from his college teaching for traveling." The Bradfords live in Long Branch, N. J.

Lindsay Chalmers has sold his diner at Catskill, N. Y., and is now a manager for Service Systems, Corp., Food Operations, Inc., of Buffalo. He works in their Albany locations. Lindsay had lunch with Frank Hussey and Jim Chalmers '24, in Washington in March.

"Tubby" Everett's birthday celebration in April not only included a party but he was presented a certificate of merit and an honorable discharge after completing 30 years in the Maine Army National Guard and the United States Army. He was retired with the rank of full colonel in the Maine National Guard. "Tubby" is with the Bridge Div., Maine State Highway Dept.

Rudy Vallee was honored by the Maine State Society at their annual lobster dinner. He was awarded the first annual big "M" award by the society at the Washington, D. C., reception and dinner which was attended by over 500 guests and members.

Vena Field is head of the English Dept. at the Mordock Junior-Senior High School, Winchendon, Mass.

Lt. Col. Francis S. Dole has retired from the United States Air Force after 36 years of military duty. He was commander of the Headquarters Squadron of the 341st Strategic Missile Wing at Malmstrom AFB, Mont., at the time of his retirement.

Frank Hussey was reelected to the state YMCA Executive Comm. for a three-year term.

We have only caught up with a few of the travelers, but Florida vacationers were Frank '26 and Leona (Reed) McDonald, of Monmouth, Frank and Mrs. Robinson, of Augusta; just back from Italy and the Mediterranean is Louise (Quincy) Lord, and off to Europe as a tour director is Hope (Norwood) Bannister; and Arline Lynch, of Brewer, will go on the U. of Maine's summer tour to Europe.

"Hap" Gerrish, Augusta, Republican County Chairman, will be a candidate in the June primary election for one of Kennebec County's three Senate seats.

Larry Connors, Bangor, has been elected a Real Estate Officer with the Eastern Trust and Banking Co.

Eli Aronson has retired from his clothing company in New London, Conn.

Bob Haskell was elected chairman of the Board of Merchants National Bank in January and in March re-elected president of the Development Credit Corp.

From Fred and Betty (Peabody) Parsons, Snyder, N. Y.: "We have 5 grandchildren — 3 girls in Detroit and 2 boys in Massachusetts. Currently building an auxiliary ketch which will eventually be in Penobscot Bay — as soon as we have the time to use it."

At Kennebec County Extension sponsored Town and Family Workshop series, Doris (Dow) Ladd, Hallowell, extension agent, showed slides of Winter birds and discussed bird identification.

Mrs. Mark Bailey, a local artist, of Orono, was honored at a tea by the Orono High School Librarians' Club in April. The tea was also in observance of National Library Week. Mrs. Bailey presented the school-community library with an oil painting. Mrs. Baile received her M.A. Degree in '25, and during that time taught Physical Education to us at Maine. Remember when Phys Ed classes were held in the gym in Balentine basement? Your class secretary has enjoyed many of Mrs. Bailey's art exhibits in Maine. Mrs. Bailey's late husband was a professor of Public Speaking at Maine.

Andrews

John S. Andrews, Ph.D., is one of five scientists who has pioneered General Mills' first formal research program in 1930. Since then he has played a prominent part in some of the most significant advances made in the national diet. One of Dr. Andrews' many achievements, based in good part, on his basic research studies, was his pioneering contribution to flour enrichment. The two Company products which Dr. Andrews found when he joined General Mills in 1928 were flour and wheatees. They have since been joined by a long list of new products, which includes nearly 60 package items alone. Many of these are familiar to us under the Betty Crocker label. John Andrews was born at Gray, received his B.S. degree from the U. of M. his A.M. degree from Harvard and his PhD from John Hopkins. An active member of many technical associations, he has served on the National Research Council, Civil Defense, and National Academy of Sciences on many advisory committees. At General Mills he was named Head of Food and Nutritional Dept. He became director of Food Science Activity in 1952 and in 1963 assumed the added responsibility of Acting Head of Fundamental Food Research. He retired last month after having been with the Company for 36 years.

Gordon S. McDonald, for 37 years has been with the Illinois Division of Highways as District Construction Engineer in the Dixon District. This covers the ten northwest counties of the state. They are now nearing completion of Interstate 80 and 74. Gordon has a son and a daughter and each of these have two children.

A note from Dave Fuller, mailed from Nassau, Bahamas (nice stamp) said that he and Phyllis (Webber, '33) had just spent two weeks vacationing in "an interesting place" and that Dave had attended a court session to observe the trial of a criminal case. The Fullers live in Bangor.

Reuben Askamase, husband of Hilda Graham, was the subject of a feature article in the February 7 issue of TIME. Reuben is chairman of Dunhill International, Inc., "Best known for its tobacco products." The article goes on to say that the well-known smoking supplies are "almost a sideline" to the other parts of the business which range from baby bottle nipples, through baseballs, railroading and book publishing. Reuben hailed from North Dakota and he and Hilda now live in Houston, Tex.

Russell Bailey of the Department of Plants and Soils at Maine was one of the featured speakers at the 57th Farm and Home Week held at the University the last of March. "Bill" presided at the Small Fruits session and discussed "Cold Tolerance in Corn" at the Vegetable sessions. The Baileys reside in Orono.

William D. Kiah, Brewer, has celebrated his 30th anniversary with Beneficial Finance Company. The office in Brewer was opened in 1943. Bill is a former member of the Dover and Portsmouth, N. H., Kiwanis, a past president of Portland Kiwanis, past president of the Western Maine Football Officials and a life member of the Maine State Football Officials Association.

Jerome Knowles, Northeast Harbor, has been named to the education committee of the American Society of Real Estate Counselors.

A note from "Brownie" Schruppf of the Alumni Office said "I have put the 'Face of Maine' clipping in the file". I was the subject of this feature of the Portland Sunday Telegram in the May 17 issue.

When wondering to whom to send that last vacation post card — how about your class reporter?

Our 35th Reunion has come and gone and this is my last column. Thanks to those of you who were kind enough to send me news items. I hope all of you who look for this column in the Alumnus will make a special effort to send news to your new secretary, Dick Holmes. The column is only as newsy as you make it. Your other new officers are Dick and Claire (Callaghan) Fitzmorris as president and vice-president and Dean Bailey is remaining for another term as treasurer. We had a very pleasant dinner party at the Penobscot Valley Country Club and wished you were all there. A number of people who had planned to be there had to cancel, among them Everett Collogue, Al Whittier and Don Small because of illnesses in their families. Gabe Wheeler also canceled at the last minute.

Abe Libby was unable to come because he had just been transferred to a new job in the Dupont organization. He will now be manager of a new service location for Dupont packaging films. He has been with the company for 35 years. His new address is 244 Norman Drive, Ramsey, N. J.

Dean Bailey had a nice letter from Cay Buck Booker. She is living in Milan, Italy where her husband, Jim Booker '30, is engineering a soda project. They hope to get home for a vacation next year and then expect to go to Mexico on another project.

Dean also heard from Mildred McPheters Clapp who is living in Greece but didn't say why or for how long.

Lawrence Merrill wrote from Christiansted, St. Croix in the Virgin Islands where he has owned and operated a drugstore since 1946. He was previously with the U.S. Forest Service.

Ward Snow of Blue Hill who is president of the Maine Chapter of the National Assn. of Postmasters of the U.S. presided at a management conference of postmasters in Bangor. The postmasters, seeking ways to improve service, discussed everything from mucilage to zip codes.

At the time of writing this column I have an item that tells of Oayma Colby running for director of his school administrative district. The election is over by now and I don't know whether he won or lost but I hope he won. He lives in South Paris and has previously served 12 years on the Paris school board. He also was selectman for nine years and served two terms in the state legislature. He is a past president of the Oxford County Extension Assn. and the Oxford County Farm Bureau. He is employed at the Burnham and Morrill plant in South Paris, is married and has three sons and a daughter.

Oscar Turner has been elected president of the Pine Tree State 4-H Club Foundation.

Roger Wilkins moderated one of a series of Mental Health Lectures in Hartford last April.

We heard that he was in Maine to speak at Ricker College the week-end of our reunion and were sorry that he couldn't join us.

Dear Classmates:

Time for class notes comes just as we are anxiously preparing to return to campus for Commencement. I hope we see many of you there and gather a lot of news for our next column. Much of this news is left over from last month because the Alumnus couldn't print it all. Hope it's not stale news.

Joy to all class secretaries, a letter from one of you. This welcome letter came from Erma and Fred "Slim" Sylvester with a report of their banner year, 1963. All three of their children were married. Son Torrey '59 was married in March to a girl from Saskatoon, Sask. They are now at Sasebo, Japan. In August, Rachel, a senior in college, was married to Thomas Good of Monticello. And on December 28, Sandra '62 was married to a Loring Air Force Staff Sgt. She continues to teach on the Base. Erma and Slim must be rattling around in the house they built two years ago in Houlton. It's six miles out in the country across from the country club and sounds delightful.

Not to be outdone by the Sylvesters, we had our second wedding of 1963 on December 28. As previously reported our daughter Jane was married last July. In December Ernestine '64 was married to Raymond Vermette '64. They have an apartment in Orono this semester and will leave the first of June for Madison, Wisconsin, where Ray has a scholarship. For the next four years he will be working for his Ph.D. in molecular biology. He is also one of four to receive a national scholarship from Alpha Zeta of which he is president of the Maine Chapter. He is also a member of the Phi Kappa Phi, and Beta Theta Pi. We're very proud of our new sons.

Representative Clifford McIntire boasted of two new grandchildren in two weeks. Daughter Patricia '58 (Mrs. Malcolm) Andrews of Littleton, Massachusetts, gave birth to a son two weeks after her brother, Blynn '57, greeted his first child in Dallas, Texas, a daughter.

Strange as it may seem Jim Booker and Cay (Buck '29) Booker are living in Milan, Italy, only a couple of blocks from John Palmer. Small world! Jim and Cay will be overseas for the next year and a half. Then they will probably live in Mexico for two or three years. He is working on another soda ash plant that is being engineered in Italy for construction in Mexico.

During the 57th Farm and Home Week, Dairy Cattle Breeders heard a report by Ralph Corbett on a 1,000-Cow Dairy in New York.

Fred Lamoreau was elected chairman of the Board of Trustees of Riverside Cemetery at the annual meeting.

Dr. William Roche, Marlboro, Mass., was appointed by Governor Endicott Peabody to the Board of Registration of Medicine. He is one of five to be appointed to fill vacancies on the Board. Bill has practiced medicine and surgery for over 25 years and is a member of several fraternal and medical societies.

1931 Mrs. Sam Sezak
4 Gilbert St., Orono

Dr. Ermo Scott, president of Farmington State Teachers' College, was recently named a trustee of Maine Maritime Academy by Governor John Reed. He has also been elected president of the Board of Trustees.

The honor of throwing out the first ball for the opening night game of the Washington Senators in their spacious new stadium went to Ward Cleaves, newly elected president of the greater Washington D.C. Restaurant Association. Viewing this occasion with interest was Ethel (Thomas) Sezak and daughter, Mary Anne and son, Thomas ex '59.

Another baseball item: Playing for the Administration vs. Student Senate on Maine Day were three members of '31: pitcher, Sam Sezak; catcher, Mickie McGuire; third base, Phil Brockway.

Inez Watters Fitz is now teaching at Watford, Conn., where her husband is now superintendent of schools. They live in Watford.

1932 Miss Angela Miniutti
55 Ashmont St.
Portland

Mrs. Edward Stern (Molly Rubin) of Bangor was one of the hostesses at a recent party of the Penobscot County Democratic Women's Club in Brewer.

Mrs. H. Kenneth Smith (Marion Jacques) of

Bath, retired from school teaching last year, hopes to do more with her hobby of writing history stories as her health improves.

Sister Mary Euphrasia (Beulah Bradbury) is dean of studies at St. Joseph's College at Standish.

Paul G. Butler of the Bangor Water District was one of a faculty of five named to provide instruction at a Water Treatment Plant Operators' School held at the U. of M. in April.

From the family of the Rev. and Mrs. Jack Grenfell (Clarine Coffin) of Hartford, Conn., comes this report. Son John received his BA from Drew U. in June '63. Lorna is a sophomore at Mt. Holyoke and Pamela is a sophomore at Hall High where Clarine has taught Honors English for the past eight years. Rev. Jack is pastor of the South Park Methodist Church in Hartford.

Winthrop C. Libby, Dean of Agriculture at the U. of M. had a very active part at the 57th Farm and Home Week in the spring. Dean Libby was host at the luncheon at the University in the spring honoring Howard Bertsch, National Administrator for the Farmers Home Administration.

Roscoe C. Masterman is manager of the Northern Div. of the International Paper Co., Glen Falls, N. Y., where he is responsible for coordinating the activities of the six mills in New York, Pennsylvania and Maine. He is a newly elected member of the TAPPI executive committee.

Keith Percival is chief materials examiner for the State of Maine Bureau of Purchases. He has a rather interesting job, according to a recent newspaper account of his work, where he tests literally everything the state government buys. He does all of this work in a small laboratory of his own design.

Clayton Sullivan is president of the Chicago Chapter of the U. of M. Alumni.

1933 Mrs. Robert Pendleton
(Betty Barrows)
Island Falls

Winston (Win) Robbins '32 MS. '33 was the engineer in charge of the installation of the new 4600-foot chair lift at Rangeley's Saddleback Mountain. Laurence Decker, State Fish and Game Dept. engineer designed the fishway which has been installed at the St. Regis Dam on the Machias River. John Roche '32 was one of the engineers who spoke about the proposed Quoddy project on a special TV program about the power possibilities at Quoddy. (Program was May 25.)

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Josselyn (Lora Brown), Houlton have announced the engagement of their daughter Lynne, to Robley Morrison, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robley Morrison ('36) of Marquette, Mich.

Winston Robbins and Stephanie Barry were among the juniors at U. of M. to be selected for membership in Phi Kappa Phi.

Blanche Henry returns to the campus next fall. She will be head resident at Androscoggin Hall.

Warren Frohock, Danvers, Mass., is listed in the ninth edition of Who's Who in the East. He is an electronics engineer and is engaged in the design and development of recording storage tubes for Rationex Co. at Quincy, Mass. Congratulations to you, Warren.

Edward "Ed" Haggett, Jr., and his wife, Marion, are looking forward to a visit in Germany with their son Edward 3rd '61 and his wife, Carol, and their two sons. (Happy to hear that you folks have entered the grandparent group — guess I am a little behind on the news in your family.)

The Rawsons, Evelyn (Gleason) and Bartlett have recently enjoyed a trip by jet to Arizona and California. Their son, Charles, Jr., is an Air Force Lieutenant stationed at the Air Defense Sector in Phoenix. He and his wife, Delores, and daughter, Deborah Lynn, live in Phoenix.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert (Bob) Feeley have recently returned from a vacation at St. Moritz. The Feeleys are skiing enthusiasts so they take advantage of jet travel to vacation in Switzerland.

Pauline (Siegel) Cole writes that she has a granddaughter, Lisa Ann, three months old. If your daughter and family are in San Raphael, Calif., you too will have to become jet travelers.

Lieutenant Colonel, United States Army, Retired, and Mrs. Gregg McLeod of Newport News, Va., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Barbara Dale McLeod '63, to Lieutenant Anthony Kidd Holtry, United States Army, son of Mrs. Clyde Holtry and the late Colonel Holtry, United States Army, of Columbus, Ohio.

Thanks, Art Forrestall, for your recent letter. Nice to know someone remembers that I need help. Art, by the way, had the pleasure of introducing Congressman Cliff McIntire to the Woodfords Club.

Miriam Hanaburgh is Head School Nurse Teacher at Central School, District #3, Montrose, N. Y.

1934 Mrs. Don Corbett
("Frankie" Dean)
4605 Lindell Blvd., St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Favor of Lafayette, Calif., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sally Ellen Favor to David G. Stow, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Stow of Alamo, Calif. The Favors were former residents of Brunswick.

Mildred R. Covell, of Orono, was installed president of the Past Noble Grands Club of Star of Hope Rebekah Lodge at the February meeting of the chapter.

Mrs. Henry de Mauriac of Fitzwilliam, N. H., is the former Beatrice Cummings Burke.

Tom Morse (C.L.U.) is now Head of Estate Planning in Phoenix Mutual.

Miss Marion Martin, commissioner of the State Dept. of Labor and Industry spoke at the Zonta Club in Waterville this spring on "Status of Women in Maine". This meeting was an area meeting.

1935 Mrs. Charles G. Paine
(Louise Rosie)
212 West Broadway, Bangor

Brig. Gen. Clayton Totman, U.S.M.C. (ret.), is the new president of the Maine Forest Products Council. Following college, Clayton joined the Marine Corps and, from '56-'59, developed a management program for U.S. Navy property to coordinate soil conservation and game management. In this post he was special assistant to the Sec. of the Navy. In '59 he retired from the Marine Corps and moved to Maine. Gen. T. owns timberland in Maine and Massachusetts and is termed a "small timberland owner" — but one far more experienced in forestry than most. He is vice president of the Maine Christmas Tree Assoc. and was chairman of Maine's National Wildlife Week program in March. He appeared on WABI-TV, Bangor, that week, speaking on the theme of "America Needs Outdoor Recreation".

Annie MacLellan Gipson teaches history in the Hall-dale Consolidated High School, Hallowell. Annie is a critic teacher in the U. of M. student teaching program — her 25th year of teaching. She lives in Hallowell, is president of the Gardiner Federated Credit Union, and has a 19-year-old son who attends Thomas College.

Bobbie Lewis Kimball has recently seen Dr. Arthur Nichols at Miles Memorial Hospital in Damariscotta. He lives in No. Edgecomb with his wife and daughter. A son Peter (Maine '62) teaches at Hermon High School.

We heard that Arline Anderson Card's husband Robert has resigned as Poland Springs Hotel golf pro. What's new Lolly? Have you moved?

Stephen Marshall has recently returned from a 2-mo. trip around the world. Stephen, who is employed by Pan American and flies out of Kennedy in N. Y., made his round the world flight for Chrysler Corp. which used a DC7 transport to exhibit the newly manufactured turbine (jet) car. Stephen, his wife and two sons live in Leavittown, L. I., N. Y.

Grid Tarbell was elected to a second term as mayor of Belfast in a city election held the first of March.

These busy gentlemen are always in the hometown news — fortunately for me and our column. Max Rapaport has qualified for the ninth time for Equitable's Million Corps; George Carlisle has been elected to the finance committee of the Bangor District Nursing Assoc. and also named a director of the Millinocket Trust Co.; Frank Myers has been selected by President Elliott to serve on a ten member committee making plans for the observance during 1965 for the 100th anniversary of the founding of U. of M. Frank is chairman of this committee, and will serve as assistant director of Summer Sessions again this year.

Our deepest sympathy to Etta Grange Sawyer and her sons on the recent death of her husband Ralph ('33).

A note from Carl Titcomb, Newport, tells us he has two sons at the University — Alan, a senior majoring in Forestry, and Dean, a sophomore majoring in Business & Agri. Economics. Both are living at the Sigma Phi Epsilon house.

Had a lovely letter from Janet Brown Hobbie the other day, but with the first page missing! So, I'll leave you in suspense until September when we'll have complete news of Janet and her family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Boothby, Anson, have announced the engagement of their daughter Margaret to John Mitchell of Rye, N. Y. Margaret is a junior at Maine majoring in home ec. The couple plan an early fall wedding.

1936 Mrs. Albert Temple Smith
(Dorothy Jones Smith)
Harbor Street, Belfast

Congratulations to Ira Dole's wife, Dorothy, for being elected Augusta's Mother of the Year. The Doles have two daughters presently on campus, Judy '64 in Home Ec., and Jean Dole Leighton '66 in Education. Their oldest daughter is a graduate nurse.

Dana Sidelinger, Wakefield, Mass. was recently appointed Commercial Methods Assistant in the Boston Area of the New England Telephone Company.

A nice note from John Dean in which he says he has a son, Herbert, operating the transmitter for WMEB, Channel 12; a son, Arthur, graduate of Principia College, teaching General Science and Biology at Crosby High (right here in Belfast); a son, David, Freshman at U. of M.; and daughter Diana, a Junior at Hermon High School.

Frederick N. Sprague has been named assistant to the Manager of Manufacturing, Printing Paper Division of St. Regis, and will be located at the Deferiet, N. Y. mill.

Leonard Ford, Jr. served as moderator of the annual meeting of the East Eddington Community Church and was also appointed to the building committee.

A welcome card from Junius Birchard, Hackettstown, N. J. says that he is teaching French at Somerville High School. His wife Bea Jones '37, is teaching Home Economics at Somerville High School. Their son, Bruce, is a freshman at Wesleyan University, and another son, Bob, is in 8th Grade.

Polly Harmon Butler is a P.R.N. at Framingham Union Hospital, Framingham, Mass.

Wendall Hadlock, director of the Farnsworth Museum, Rockland, was the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Bangor Art Society.

The class extends sympathy to Carolyn Currier Lombardi in the recent death of her mother.

1937 Mrs. Gordon B. Raymond
(Barbara Lancaster)
37 Glenwood Ave., Portland

Our thanks to Audrey Bishop Thibodeau for doing such a fine job of writing the class personals for the past two years. Someone who promised to do the column for a year must have "gotten lost". Fair warning to the next in line, because we each bargained to do it only for one year.

By the way, Audrey and Tib's oldest daughter, Berna, was married in May to Dr. Robert P. Andrews. I believe they will live in Portland where he is a resident at the Maine Medical Center and Bunny is an instructor of nurses—correct me if I am wrong.

Brownie Schrupf very kindly sent along a few notices. From one of these we learn that Sam Levine, DVM, who has been president for the past thirteen years of the David Yellen Co., Inc. announces his withdrawal from the corporation and has assumed the sole ownership of the Samuel Perkins Co., specializing in surgical instruments and supplies for veterinary medical practitioners and research laboratories. Best of luck to you, Sam.

Congratulations to Dick Braley who has recently been appointed Headmaster of New Ipswich Appleton Academy for the school year 1964-65. The Braleys will be moving to New Ipswich, N. H., in August. Their daughter, Pamela, will be a senior at U. of M. next year.

In March Flora Lutz accompanied by another teacher and some students from Miss Porter's school in Farmington, Conn., went on a two-week air and sea tour of Greece. It must have been a rewarding experience, Flora.

I guess Raynor Brown will be busy during the coming presidential campaign, since he was recently elected chairman of the Republican committee in his home town of Waterford. He and his wife, Georgia (Thayer) were also chosen alternates to the district convention—more power to you both!

By the time you are reading this copy I shall have made two trips to Orono, one for Commencement when Gordon's nephew receives his degree and the second for the wedding, June 13, of Sue Gildart and Jon Woodbury, Hal and Henny (Cliff) Woodbury's oldest son. What with trips to accompany the WJC tennis and softball teams and attending Dana's junior high baseball games, the spring has been a busy one in the Raymond household. After June 15 I hope to move to the lake and get acquainted with my family again.

Received a very interesting news letter through the Alumni Office from Tubby Hodges and family. It is in the form of a small newspaper and brings us up to date on all that has been going on with them. They have recently moved to Centennial, Wyoming and Tubby is a Professor of Military Science at the University of Wyoming. He and his wife, Abe, and son, Jerry, have many projects in hand, one big one being that they are planning to raise Siberian Huskies. He cordially invites any class members to visit them if they are out west.

Nancy Trolland, daughter of Parker Trolland, and Diana Dunlap, daughter of the late Duffy Dunlap, were both recently elected to All-Maine Women.

Henry Lowe was a speaker at the recent Farm and Home Week in Orono.

Mary-Hale Furman and her husband, John, have just returned from a three-week trip to Europe with the Boston Trade Commission visiting nine countries and spending a few days in Russia.

Hi,

By the time you read this, us old timers will have reunions, and the fall column should have lots of up to the minute news. I have enjoyed filling in this past year. I hope that all of you will continue to send news to the Alumni Office or the secretary of the class.

Deck Clafin wrote that he is a chiropractor in West Hartford, Conn. Roger Clement is now District Manager for Twin "C" McCulloch Co., in St. Louis—still lives at the same address. Erwin Cooper is a partner in the law firm of Kabatznick, Stern and Cooper in Newtonville, Mass., and an Associate Professor of Law at the Portia Law School. Louis Costrell lives in Silver Spring, Md., and is Chief of Radiation Physics Instrumentation Section of the National Bureau of Standards. Barry (Harland) Dodge served 21 years in the U. S. Army and is now working for New York Life Insurance Company. One daughter is at the University, and another hopes to attend. Robert Doe is General Pulping Supervisor for the West Virginia Pulp and Paper and is living in Westernport, Md.

Harlan Fitch lives in Groton, Mass., is self employed as a consulting forester. Walton Grundy had hoped to attend the reunion. He is Head, Micro-biology Department, Research Division of the Abbott Laboratories in Chicago, Ill. He lives in Waukegan. Betty Homans Hancock lives in Casco with her two sons, one of whom is headed for the University this fall. Our President Bill Hilton is Senior Research Engineer for du Pont, and lives in Newark, Del. Francis Lovering lives in Chelmsford, Mass., and is Industrial Appraiser for Factory Mutual Engineering Division. Carleton Merrill lives in Newton, Mass. and is an accountant for Arthur D. Little, Inc. Frank Rich is a livestock farmer in Charlestown. Charlotte Currie Stafford is now teaching, having done newspaper work for a number of years. She lives in Pittsfield. Erling Toennasen is a Mechanical Engineer at the U. S. Navy, Applied Science Lab, and lives in Newport, R. I. Al and June (Phelps) Dyson live in Canaan, Conn. and are responsible for the idea of a lobster dinner for the Pilgrim Church. The dinner attracted 300 people and has grown to 800. Al picks the lobsters up in Portland in the morning—so they have fresh Maine lobster.

Dave Trafford is going to teach in France next year at the Institute of American Universities at Aix-en-Provence. Eleanor Currie Parsons is candidate for reelection to the School Board in Rockport, Mass. She and her husband run a guest house called Story House. Al Freidman is a member of the Bangor Steering Committee to promote Urban Renewal. This fall I am going to Groton School in Groton, Mass. as House Director. This summer I will be vacationing and hoping to get my Private Pilot's license. I will be either in Pittsfield or Shelburne, N. H. and would love to have callers at either place.

teacher at the junior high school in Lynnfield, Mass. Previously Tine has done substitute work in the elementary grades and in home economics.

A new mathematics textbook entitled Equalities and Approximations with Fortram Programming has been published and it was written by our own Bob Larson. Because you know and I know that I really don't know what I am talking about, I hope I am correct when I say that "Fortram" stands for formula translation used in programming for computers. Bob formerly was dean of mathematics at Clarkson College of Tech. in Potsdam, N. Y. He now is the dean of instruction at Mohawk Valley Community College with headquarters in Utica, N. Y. He, his wife, and 4 children live in Whitesboro, N. Y.

Shirley Sweet writes that Jim Tweedie moved to the headquarters office of Am. Tel. and Tel. during the past year to take a position with their accounting dept., and is living at Short Hills, N. J. Shirley's daughter, Meriby, was elected vice-president of the Class of '67 at the university.

Don Brackett is a candidate for the Republican nomination as county attorney from Lincoln Co. in the June primary. He presently is town chairman of the Wiscasset Republican Town Comm.; member of Rep. County Comm.; has had his law office in Wiscasset since 1950; is active in the American Legion, county and district levels; is a member of the Pine Tree Council, Boy Scouts of America; and is a trustee of the Wiscasset School District and the Wiscasset Public Library.

Had such a nice letter from Betty Reid the other day. She said that Ruth (Green) Wright's daughter, Susie, is being married June 20, and reminded me that on the same weekend in the same church Ruth and Bill themselves were married 25 years ago. Betty, Honey (Dougherty) Mesrobian, and I were three of the bridesmaids. Needless to say I guess we launched Ruth well and it is obvious that the marriage is a success! Betty, of course, has her fingers in lots of pies on campus, Bangor, etc., and I have learned of one more activity — the U. of M. Weekly Calendar which I think is a great publication and represents a lot of work.

In Dec. 1963 ground was broken for a huge shopping center in Augusta, and Brooks Brown is co-owner. The plans call for completion next fall. Brooks lives in Augusta.

Peter J. Skoufis, an officer of the Foreign Service of the U.S., is one of approximately 3700 men and women who comprise our diplomatic and consular service throughout the world. He recently was nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate for promotion.

I would like to squeeze in recognition and thanks for 3 personal letters I have received recently:

Archie Nickerson will begin new duties with the school system of New Britain, Conn. this fall. For the past 16 years he has been in Sharon, Conn. with the school system there and serving on various educational associations and commissions. He and his family enjoy summer vacations at their cottage at Swan Lake in Maine.

Lin Day has been a general assignment and feature writer for The Times, a daily newspaper, and The Post, a weekly in San Mateo, Calif. the past 8 years. The list of famous people with whom he has contact and those he interviews, etc. is fabulous. I wish I could go into more of the details but it will have to wait for more space. Thanks, Lin.

This is all until next fall! Don't forget our class pledges for our 25th fund. Just think how hard our class fund agent, Johnny Dyer, and our president Mike Cohen are slaving on our behalf!

1. Note from Sally (Lockett) Taylor that she is currently completing a major in Botany at Conn. College in New London with the hope of returning to teaching or conservation work soon. Her oldest daughter goes to college this fall, and their son to Mount Hermon.

2. Word from Romaine (Littlefield) Kupfer, Baton Rouge, La. that she has received an A.A.U.W. Education Foundation College Faculty Program Award recently, and that she will study Geography. Congratulations.

3. John Kenoyer of Augusta has recently been named special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation for the Augusta area. John has served in Chicago, Washington, and Albany prior to his assignment in Augusta. Congratulations are in order.

The Maine Potato Growers, Inc., will open a new modern dairy plant at the Skyway Park, located at the old Presque Isle Air Force Base, in the near future. Elmer Davis, Jr., who has been in the dairy business all his business life, will manage the plant for MPG. This is another example of positive action that Aroostook farmers can take in working together in an effort to break away from the strict dependence on the potato economy.

Howard E. Spencer, Jr., Maine's waterfowl research leader has just completed a winter Waterfowl Census, working with Ken DeWitt of Old Town. It indicated a slight drop from a year ago but the average waterfowl count remains in the 50,000 area.

Donald W. Danforth will be a lecturer at the fifth summer institute for the Pulp and Paper technology program at the University. His subject will be: "Beating and Refining Equipment."

Bruce Billings has again been elected a member of the Executive Board, North Star District, of the Katahdin Area Council for the year 1964-65. Congratulations, Bruce, this work in the field of Scouting is very worthwhile.

One final note of a personal nature. I have recently been elected Master of Temple Lodge #25 AF&AM in Winthrop. It might be of interest to note that our lodge received its charter in 1817, three years before Maine separated from Massachusetts, and this charter is signed by the then Governor of that State. We are looking forward to 1967 and our 150th anniversary.

Write to me so that I can keep all informed of what's going on with the rest of you.

1946 Mrs. Chas. D. Stebbins (Betty Perkins) 29 Oxford St. Winchester, Mass.

Lots of news this issue which should make you readers happy! It certainly makes me happy.

Mary (Hubbard) Flynn, husband Jack and sons Jim and Jackie are now living in Bellevue, Washington. Shortly after their move to Bellevue in March '63, they found that they were neighbors of Ann (Andy Cavett) and Sherwood (Flash) Gordon, and had a big reunion. What fun they must have had! The Gordons have three children, Paula, Debbie and little S. F.

Wonderful to have news of Jeanne Delano Reiss. She lives in England, at 128 Duchy Rd., Harrogate, Yorks. Jeanne and husband Francis have four children—Delano, Nicola, Philippa and Mark. Jeanne says that the most interesting thing they did this past year was to take a six week trip to the Middle East—Turkey, Iran, Iraq, Syria, Lebanon and Egypt.

Jean Thompson Neiley writes that the Neileys spent the winter skiing and hope to spend a month this summer at their newly purchased home at Fortunes Rocks. Endicott, N. Y., is home to Jean, her husband, and children Roger, Andrea and Chris.

Hazel Nutt Spear (Mrs. Everett) of Rockland has just returned from Washington, D. C., where she attended a meeting for 4-H leaders. The Spear children are Anne, Bonnie, Ruthie, Elizabeth, Everett III and William. What a wonderful family!

We hope Charlie Clarke and his wife Ellie had a successful season at their fabulous ski lodge at Sugarloaf Mt. What a beautiful place to stay!

Word from George Griffing this month. George is president of the Kiwanis Club of Brunswick, and a charter member of the Merrymeeting Toastmasters of Brunswick. George earned Chartered Life Underwriter (CLU) in Sept. 1963.

1947 Mrs. Henry A. Jordan (Mary Sawyer) R.F.D. #1 East Eddington

with this column—but I'd like to look forward to a long, newsy one in September; please send along notes about vacation trips and any news gathered along the way.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to Muriel (Gee) Roy, formerly of Portland, whose husband, Gerard, perished last March in a private plane crash near Danbury, N. C. He was general manager of the National Spinning Co. plant in Washington, D. C. He is also survived by his two children.

Dr. George T. Bryant of South Bend, Ind., represented the University at the dedication of the Notre Dame Memorial Library on May 7.

The Bangor Industrial Management Club has named John Darrah the president for the coming year. The announcement was made at a dinner meeting held in May.

In March the Mass. Audubon Society appointed Lee C. Davis of Barnstable director of the newly created Ashumet Wildlife Sanctuary. Lee was formerly an oceanographer at Woods Hole and since 1960 has served as director of the Cape Cod Junior Museum of Natural History in Brewster. His family includes his wife, Priscilla and children, Lee, Jr., 10 and Elizabeth, 5.

Chester Darling of Plainville, Conn., reports that son, Rudy, has been named valedictorian of the Bristol Eastern High School. He certainly has reason to be proud!

Dr. James Arnold Colbath has been advanced to associate professor in the Speech and Drama Department at Elmira College, Elmira, N. Y. He is active in the American Educational Theatre Assoc. and will direct a six weeks drama program at Cornell University this summer.

The February mail brought a very interesting news letter and note from Bob MacDonald out in Brigham City, Utah. Bob works for Thiokol and his family includes his wife, Molly, and daughters Ann, 9, Beth, 5, and Jill who arrived last July. All are athletic, as you might know — Bob serves on a ski patrol, Ann swims on an AAU championship team and Molly is a tennis champ!

A brochure from the Methodist Parsonage, Thompsonville, Conn., brought news of the completion of the new Thompsonville Methodist Church, Evan R. Johnson, Pastor. The service of consecration was held on Palm Sunday. Both June and Evan ('49) have the great satisfaction of seeing their work of the past four years reach fulfillment. I'm sure it must have been a memorable day for Karen and Kathy, too. An invitation to visit the church is extended to all by the Johnsons.

It's with great excitement that I wind up this month's column with the announcement of a new arrival at the home of Jack and Ginny Hewes in Portland. Robert Pennell Hewes was born on March 23, much to the delight of his brother and three sisters.

1949 Mrs. Oscar R. Hahnel, Jr.
(Julie Shores)
12 Jepson Ave., Lewiston

Ronald Clifford, who ably headed our reunion committee has been named Director of Purchasing at Northeastern Univ., a post similar to the one he has held at Maine the past 4 years.

Robert Ames is general manager of GE's electric tube dept. at Owensboro, Ky. He had been manager of manufacturing in the GE plant at Rome, Ga. Bob is married and the father of six children.

Paul Albert and his family are living in Bedford Village, N. Y. Paul has been with IBM Research since February.

Alfred Savignano has been named principal of Edward Little High School in Auburn. Al had been principal of Walton Jr. High, Auburn.

Earl E. Coates has resigned as superintendent of schools, Union 48, in order to return to college full time for work on his doctorate.

Another teacher, Lt. Col. Anthony Cristo, received the Army Commendation Medal for his service as instructor at the U. S. Army Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Donald Card is teaching general math at Morse High (Bath) and coaching JV basketball. He and Gloria have four sons, almost enough for their own team.

Ray T. McDonald, who has been manager of the Bridgton Office of the Casco Bank has been named supervisor of nine district offices with headquarters in Bridgton.

Bernard L. Marsh is city manager in Skokie, Ill. He writes that he is sorry to miss reunion, but that he and the family will be in Old Town on vacation the last week of June.

William Foster, York Harbor, has been named to a four year term on the Executive Board of the Maine State Florists Assn. Bill continues to put on his famous clambakes and last Sept. he did one at the Eastern States Exposition.

For all those I didn't see at reunion, have a nice summer.

1950 Mrs. George R. Brockway
(Elinor Hansen)

Major Joseph Simanonok was recently awarded the air medal for the flying he did in So. Vietnam last year as an advisor to the Vietnamese Air Force. Gerry, '49, keeps busy with their four boys!

Ed Bridges is an anesthesiologist at Emerson Hosp. in Concord, Mass. The Bridges have three children.

Charles Fink has his Ph.D. in psychology and is working for "Humro", Human Research Organization, in Alexandria, Va. The Finks live in Bethesda, Md.

Joe Connary is now associated with Lawrence & Wheeler of Springfield, Vt. Isn't that up your way, Mary Whitcomb Stover?

Freda Gray-Masse was presented in a concert at Colby College in Feb. by the Waterville Branch, AAUW. Freda and three other professionals performed at the University's Christmas Vespers last Dec. She also performed with the New Orleans Symphony in Jan.

Carl Fenderson has resigned as information-education director of the State Fish and Game Dept. and in Sept. will enroll at Columbia Univ. for a year and a half. Until Sept. Carl will be executive sec. of the Maine Natural Resources Council which is a non-profit group of citizens devoted to promoting sound conservation practices in the development of Maine as an industrial and recreational leader in the Northeast. Carl played a major role in the establishment of Maine's first conservation education school at Bryant Pond where teachers and children are trained each summer. He inaugurated and edited the dept.'s magazine, "Maine Fish and Game" that has won several national awards.

Quite a bit of news this time. Keep it coming. Better start planning to attend our 15th reunion a year from June!

This man's career in Seattle began 2,052 miles away

New England Life agent Arlen Prentice (University of Washington '59) discusses a key-man insurance program with Larry Mounger (University of Washington '59), secretary and legal counsel of Pacific Trail Sportswear Corporation.

It started in Chicago. After college and the service, Arlen Prentice took a position there as a salaried officer of a national fraternity. It was interesting work, but for Arlen something was lacking: challenge . . . long-range potential.

Then a prominent fraternity brother had a talk with him about plans for the future. This man was a New England Life general agent. He pointed out the opportunities with this company and convinced Arlen that life insurance could give him the kind of career he was after.

Arlen liked what he heard. But there was one drawback. Much as he felt that here was the man who could guide him to his full potential in this business, he had always hoped to settle in the Seattle area. Although he regretted losing Arlen, our Chicago general agent quickly assured him that he could also get what he wanted in our Seattle agency. He then wrote his counterpart in Seattle, strongly recommending Arlen. "Our loss is your gain," he said.

For Arlen this is already working out very well. He's found he can provide a service to businessmen that is welcomed. And he's getting direct results in earnings. As Arlen puts it: "Even as a new man in the business, I didn't have to limit myself to any particular 'class' of prospect. New England Life has prepared me for going after big accounts as well as modest ones."

Our general agencies throughout the country provide support and direction to help men with aptitude for our business realize their full potential. If a career like Arlen Prentice's interests you at all, there's an easy first step to take. Send for our free Personality-Aptitude Analyzer. It's a simple exercise you can take on your own in about ten minutes. Then return it to us and we'll mail you the results. (This is a bona fide analysis and many men find they cannot qualify.) It could be well worth ten minutes of your time.

PERFECTIONIST

Assignment: Quality Control. He's a very special engineer at General Motors—a key man in a corporation which regards product dependability as a prime responsibility to its customers. He and a GM inspector are shown giving this transmission a final check. In addition to keeping an eagle eye on every phase of manufacturing, the quality control engineer is closely concerned with preliminary design and engineering. More than 13,000 individual parts go into a GM car, and every one must be as reliable as men and machines can make it. Raw materials, components, subassemblies—all get meticulous scrutiny. Tolerances to within fifty millionths of an inch are commonplace.

Among GM production employees, about one of every twelve devotes full time to quality control or inspection. Approximately 50,000 inspections are involved in the building of a single car. In addition, every machine operator has the responsibility for the quality of his work and performance of his machine. He can accept or reject any part he makes. His work is checked by the quality control engineer and the inspector, who analyze machine capabilities and predict machine inaccuracy before it occurs—not after.

They're mighty important people, these GM quality control engineers. They have an exacting job, and they take pride in doing it well. GM products bear witness to their effectiveness.

Household Furnishings

The interiors of houses in earliest Portland were somewhat dark and gloomy affairs. Window openings were few, if any, and during wintry or stormy weather were tightly shuttered. At night the only light was furnished by home-made candles and the ever-present log fire. Walls were merely roughly-adzed-out boards, sometimes covered with a mixture of clay and chopped straw. Earthen floors tamped hard were usual, though some of the better homes had either puncheon or heavy sawn plank floors. These latter were usually carefully sanded to smoothness.

Furniture at first consisted solely of the single cupboard or chest brought by the family from England to hold clothing; stools, benches and tables were made by the settlers themselves. There was little metal available, of course, so plows, shovels, rakes and almost all implements were carefully and patiently fashioned by hand of the available variety of woods. Churns, trays, firkins, tubs, tankards and trenchers were also of wood, often carved out at night by the dim light of the fireside. The few pieces of this period that have survived show painstaking care in their nicely wrought, simple designs.

Pewter was scarce, and so precious to the family owning it that it was passed on in wills to the heirs, carefully and lengthily described, piece by piece. This is true also of the few cooking utensils owned by the earlier settlers. There was no glass and very little pottery. Sometimes native bog iron was used in fashioning cooking kettles, but wherever possible they were made of clay. However, clay at best had a short life over the open cooking fires, and the few iron pieces were treasured.

George Cleeves, Portland's first mainland settler, in July, 1659, in one of the many legal proceedings he engaged in during his lifetime, filed a lengthy Bill of Complaint with the Court in which it is interesting to note that he was as much concerned over the alleged theft of his "brewing kittle and pott," as anything else.
